FIGHT IN THE HOUSE

Opponents of State Roads
System Win Their First
Step in Program

House Bill No. 233, which would abolish Federal aid road work in North Dakota require the state highway commission to wind up its work—survived the first brush over the bill in the house of representatives. The bill will be fought over late today in general orders and the issue of whether or not there shall be a "moratorium" on state highways work in North Dakota settled.

The bill was reported out by the highways committee, the majority for minor amendments and passage, the minority report signed by C. H. Gofanson and L. H. Steen for indefinite postponement. Proponents of the bill asked that discussion be deferred until general orders. A motion to kill the bill failed, by a large vote, and "nay" vote, but because of the fact that there was coupled with the plea for adoption of the majority report the suggestion that the bill could be better disposed of in general orders, the vote may not have been a real test of strength.

There is, however, strong opposition to the state highway roads more particularly to the Federal Aid roads and, according to expressions in the highways committee, against the plans and specifications laid down for dirt roads in North Dakota by the United States Bureau of Roads.

House Bill No. 202, one of the bills sponsored by American Legion members, was indefinitely postponed without objection from them. The bill extended the law providing English only shall be taught in the first eight school grades to include private and parochial schools. Objections of private and parochial schools reach—(Continued on Page Three)

Members of the board are Oscar Greenwood, Binford; Oscar Olson, Wahpeton; G. B. Metzger, Williston; W. E. Byerly, Velva; Don McDonald, Grand Secretary, and ex-officio member, Grand Forks; Geo. Dickinson, Minnewaukan, and C. W. Greene, Bismarck.

ODD FELLOWS BOARD HERE

May Decide Whether Building
Of Home Begins This
Year

The birthday anniversary of Abraham Lincoln will be observed by the state-legislature Monday afternoon, with a public program in the house chamber beginning at 2:30 p. m.

Both houses will meet and adjourn shortly after the session opens, for the purpose of joining in a tribute to the immortal leader of the country during the Civil War.

It is announced by Senator Lynn W. Sperry, chairman of the joint senate and house committee arranging for the program, that Civil War veterans are invited to occupy seats on the speaker's rostrum.

The program will include a vocal solo by Mrs. Anson Jackson, reading by Torrence Halloran, solo by Frank Gale and an address by Judge A. M. Christianson.

No business will be transacted by the legislature on the legal holiday, except committee meetings and similar work.

The banks of the city will be closed Monday, and there will be patriotic exercises in the schools.

PASSAGE OF HOUSE BILL NO. 233
WOULD BREAK NORTH DAKOTA'S WORD TO U. S. GOVERNMENT, IS CHARGE

Passage of house bill No. 233, pending in the legislature, "will break North Dakota's word to the federal government, accepting the provisions of the Federal Aid act," in the opinion of J. E. Kauffuss, secretary of the North Dakota Good Roads association.

"One unforeseen result of the measure, if passed, is that all Federal Aid would be withdrawn from the state," he declared. "The counties and state would be left to finance the completion of all unfinished contracts. A necessary addition to the proposed measure, if it is to work at all, should provide a fund of perhaps $500,000 or more to take the place of the federal funds which have been relied on to complete the contracts still in force."

The measure would wind up the work of the highway commission and abolish the state highway building fund. "All state highway work would be shut off," he declared. "The maintenance of the state roads, including completed state aid and federal aid projects, would be left to the counties. The proposed returns of auto money to the counties would, in a great many counties, be inadequate to properly maintain the completed state work and such counties would need to provide additional funds to take care of such work."

"The maintenance of the Missouri river bridge would fall entirely on Burleigh and Morton counties."

"No further federal aid could come to North Dakota, and its allotment of $1,000,000 a year, all but $300,000 of which is derived from other state, would go back to the other states."

"No more retrogressive step could have been conceived than house bill No. 233, which, if not intended to benefit only one county specially, actually does so benefit principally one county."

"Senate bills Nos. 44, 45 and 46 are just the opposite in effect and nature. Instead of returning the auto money to counties these bills use them for the general development of the state at large by the improvement of a common system of state highways. In addition, counties which have gone into state and federal work will have funds refunded to them for use on county roads."

House bill No. 233 is finding strong support in Cass county, which would be returned about 10 per cent of all auto license fees collected. It is opposed particularly by those who declare that roads no longer are bounded by county lines, and that the development of a state highway system would benefit the whole state.

STORAGE BILL TO BE PASSED BY SENATORS

Hamilton Bill Is Believed
Shelved to Make Way For Tofersud Bill Today

DEATH PENALTY LOST
Bill to Restore It Killed—3 Per Cent Maximum Interest Rate Voted

Establishment in the state of a system for storing grain on the farms, and for the obtaining of loans on the same by the farmers is provided for in Senate Bill No. 2, introduced by Senator Tofersud of Pierce county, which was taken up by the senate as a special order of business Friday afternoon and will be up for third reading and final passage today.

At the same time the senate majority vote to kill Senate Bill 47, introduced by Senator Hamilton of McHenry county, the purpose of which was the same as that of Senator Tofersud measure. The vote, the question of which of the two bills should be put up for passage was along party lines.

In urging on the senate the passage of his bill rather than that of Senator Tofersud, Senator Hamilton declared that the latter measure was not workable.

"I think both are workable in practice," interjected Senator Eitstad at this point.

PROVIDES MACHINERY
Senator Tofersud in replying to Senator Hamilton pointed out that his bill provided the machinery for carrying out the provisions of the proposed law in every county of the state while under the McHenry senator's bill it would have to be carried out by the state itself.

THE VOTE, ON PUTTING SENATOR TOFERSUD'S BILL UP FOR PASSAGE AND IN-DEFINITELY POSTPONING THAT OF SENATOR
HAMILTON STOOD 25 TO 23.

The senate had on its working clothes Friday and in a six-hour session which began at noon passed sixteen bills and killed several others.

DEATH PENALTY FALLS
Among the bills killed was that of Senator Baird which provided for the re-establishment of the death penalty for first degree murder. Although recommended to pass by a majority of the committee on state affairs the senate voted its indefinite postponement by a margin of one vote.

Senate Bill 74 making 9 per cent
the maximum contract interest rate in the state passed by a vote of 29 to 20 in spite of warnings uttered by several of the senators that its passage was a mistake.

"You are driving capital out of the state every time you pass legislation of this kind," declared Senator Stevens of Ramsey county, one of the senators who argued against the bill. An amendment offered by Senator Kretschmar under which the bill would not have gone into effect until January 1, 1924 was voted down.

Without any opposition appearing the senate passed S. B. 144, which forbids bankers to apply deposits made in their banks to obligations owed them by the depositor without

Los Angeles, Feb. 10.—The very best grade of Canadian eggs are quoted here at $6.00 a dozen. A prohibition officer seized a case and learned why the price was so high.
Each egg had been blown and re-best Scotch whisky.

COURT HAS EQUITY CASE

St. Paul, Feb. 10.—Judge Charles Bechhoefer of the Ramsey county district court today had under advisement the petition of several members of the Equity Cooperative Exchange for appointment of a receiver for the concern. The petitioners allege frauds and mismanagement by officers of the Exchange.
The defense claims the Equity is solvent and that appointment of a receiver now would be detrimental to its business. Final arguments for each side were finished late yesterday.

STATE WANTS TO TRANSFER MANDAN
SCHOOL GIRLS—NO ONE WANTS 'EM

No one wants the delinquent girls of the state training school now at Mandan.

There has been some sentiment for removing them from the school rather than to build additional buildings there.

Two years ago there was talk of changing the state science school at Wahpeton into a school for them.
The good people of Wahpeton fought the plan in their midst and a plan has been worked out to make the school there one for trades and industry.

This year the "forestry" normal school at Bottineau has been the one suggested and by yesterday that city had a delegation of three in Bismarck to lay the viewpoint of the town before the legislators.
It wouldn't be fair to the girls

IS SLASHED BY UPPER HOUSE

Big Cut Made in Sum Asked
For School Aid, Secretary
Of State's Office

TOTAL CUT $351,780

First Big Budget Appropriation Bill Passed in This Form Almost Unanimously

Appropriations for the expenses of the executive, legislative, and judicial departments of the state government and for the public schools for the coming two year period, amounting to $1,895,750 were voted by the state senate.

The amount voted is $351,780 less than the total recommendation of the budget board for these departments which was $2,247,530. The appropriations are contained in Senate Bill 86 which passed the senate with only one dissenting vote.

The reduction from the amount recommended by the budget board was accomplished by the appropriations committee by small cuts in the appropriations recommended for nearly all of the state departments.

School Aid Slashed
The largest cut made in the figures of the budget board in the bill as passed by the senate is in the department of state school. The appropriation for rural graded and consolidated schools is sliced an even $100,000 and the total appropriation for the department is cut from $806,600 to $699,600.

There is also a heavy cut in the appropriation for the secretary of state's office by reducing the appropriations for the state publicity pamphlets and the blue book. The appropriation which have gone through is reduced a total of $31,900 from the recommendations made by the state budget board.

Cut Attorney-General
In the attorney general's department the appropriation of $30,000 recommended for the employment of special assistants is cut to $20,000.

The appropriation of $119,700 recommended by the budget board for the state railway commission is cut to $97,300 in the bill as passed by the senate.

Practically every department of the state government has felt the axe to some extent.

This is the largest appropriation bill which has been passed by the senate during the present session up to this time. Most of the other major bills which have gone through being for the making up of deficits or for the small state institutions.

BANKS' SURPLUS SHOWS INCREASE

New York, Feb. 10.—The actual condition of clearing house banks and trust companies for the week showed an excess in reserve of $12-948,000. This is an increase over last week.

Boy of Thirteen Kills Chum After Card Game Quarrel

Chicago, Feb. 10.—Robert Rutkowski, 13, was arrested in the railroad yards in a suburb for the killing of a boy chum of the same age last night in a dispute over a card game. The lad was said to be waiting to board a freight train from the city.

In the absence of his parents,
Robert called Walter Melovetz, a neighbor boy, and with the former showed excess in reserve of some kind of money. A dispute arose and Robert was said to have produced a revolver. There was a shot and Walter fell dead. Robert in terror fled from the house.

LADD CALLED TO WHITE HOUSE
BY PRESIDENT

In Company with Bloc Members Talks Over Farm Industry Problem

DISCUSS SHIP BILL

Harding Asks Senator Opposing to Formulate Some
Other Remedy

Washington, Feb. 10.—Three agents of a special president's commission to study causes of our shortage and possibly other transportation causes during the coming recess of congress is being planned by President Harding who is expected to send concrete recommendations on the subject to the house and senate interstate commerce committee within the next week.

The president recently discussed the matter at the conference to which he invited Senator Capper, chairman of the Farm Block; Gooding, Idaho; Couzens, Michigan; Nor-beck, South Dakota; Brookhart, Iowa, and Ladd, North Dakota all Republicans. Those at the conference said there was general agreement that the agricultural industry required drastic relief to afford more freight cars, and that freight rates on agricultural products too high. Among other things proposed was that might study methods to bring about rate reduction.

During his talk the president discussed the administration shipping bill and told his visitors, all of whom except Gooding opposed the bill, to formulate some other remedy if they could not support the administration program.

AGED RESIDENT BURNED TO DEATH
AT NEW ROCKFORD

New Rockford, Feb. 10.—Fire in the David Henry residence in the northern part of New Rockford claimed the life of Al Cole, his body being found in the bedroom at the rear of the residence by members of the fire department. He was 70 years old and had been a resident of New Rockford for many years. It is not known whether he had any relatives.

His body was in such position that it was evidence that he had been suffocated while sleeping in a chair.
Cole occupied two small rooms in the rear of the Henry residence.
Fire was caused by an overhead fuse.

SEEK ADVICE ON ARMS CONTROL

Geneva, Feb. 10.—Under a decision taken today by the disarmament conference of the League of Nations the council of the league will be asked to ask the United States government to prepare four concrete propositions concerning the general line of collaboration it is able to give other nations in regard to control of arms and also in the private manufacture of arms.

AIRPLANE SPILL

San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 10.—Lieut.
Frank Hosinger, 27, and Sgt. Joe Kelley, both of Kelly field, were instantly killed late Friday afternoon when the DeHavilland combat plane from which they were dropping bombs in the war maneuvers being enacted before Brig. Gen. William S.
Mitchell, assistant chief of the United States army air service, crashed to earth near Laredo.

Hosinger and Kelley had just taken to the air when in crossing a gully, a gust of wind caused their ship to bank and going into a nose dive crashed to earth. The gasoline tank exploded and both men were burned to a crisp.

PLANES CRASH

San Antonio, Tex., Feb. 10.—Lieut.
Harry Martin and Walter F. Grodes, both were instantly killed a Kelly field today when their ship crashed and burned. The ship was flying over a rifle target when it suddenly nosed

SEEK COMPROMISE ON SHIP BILL

Washington, Feb. 10.—Another effort to smooth out the troubled course of the administration ship bill was made at a White House who are opposed to the bill in its present form, but who presented

FEAR BLOODSHED

Visit of Chancellor Cuno to Occupied Zone Is Deplored

Paris, Feb. 10.—German cabinet ministers hereafter will be barred from the Ruhr by the Franco-Belgian forces, Premier Poincare of France and the foreign minister of Belgium at a conference here today drafted a brief note to this effect, which was immediately delivered to the German embassies in Paris and Brussels.

The note reads: "The Belgian and French governments have established that the visit of Chancellor Cuno to the Ruhr region and the detour he took there had for its sole object and resulted in provoking a dangerous state of excitement, particularly among the big industrialists, chief functionaries and government employees."

"Under these conditions the French and Belgian governments, anxious to avoid especially in the interest of the population, disorders that might become sanguinary find it necessary to inform the government of the Ruhr and the government of the state that the ministers of the Ruhr and the German State will no longer be permitted to enter the Ruhr."

NO CHANGE IN CONDITIONS

London, Feb. 10.—The latest information from Constantinople awell as from diplomatic quarters here indicate nothing important has developed at Smyrna where foreign warships are said to remain in defiance of Turkish orders. There is no confirmation of a report that Turkish officials at Smyrna have announced an agreement with allied naval officers where the status and will be maintained pending diplomatic negotiations.

HERE'S JOY FOR SOLONS—LIBERTY
MEMORIAL BUILDING WON'T COST
TAXPAYERS ONE CENT, SAYS OFFICIAL

Money spent on the Liberty Memorial building at the capitol is not paid by the taxpayers of the state, according to E. G. Wanner, secretary of the board of administration.
To finish the building $130,000 is asked of the present legislature in addition to $300,000 already appropriated. The house passed the bill late yesterday.

When this portion of Dakota ter-buildings to be erected at the capitol, according to Carl Kositzky, land commissioner. None of the interest,

NO HOPE HELD OUT

Nature of Explosion Make
It Dubious if Any Could Survive

Dawson, N. M., Feb. 10.—Covered with a thin blanket of snow when began falling at midnight Dawson this morning continued to search for head in the torn recesses of mine No.
1 owned by the Phillips-Dodge Corporation re: Thursday by an explosion.

With the recovery shortly after 6 o'clock this morning of five bodies in a shattered passageway the total number of dead had reached 41.

According to the figures given out by corporation officials there were 122 men in the mine when the explosion occurred. Of this number two emerged yesterday morning unharmed. Seventy-nine still remain in the mine.

Work of recovering the bodies is proceeding rapidly today. Two shifts of workers are entering the tunnel every two hours and workers are searching the premises.

Only a small knot of spectators stood about the mine entrance today.
Two days of realization of the enormity of the catastrophe have given relatives and friends of the interned miners a spirit of resignation which is reflected in their unemotional manner.

Hope has been abandoned virtually that there is any men still alive
in the mine.

Experienced mining men point out that mine No. 1 is a dry mine, particularly at present. With the exception of cross-cut No. 4 from which two survivors escaped and one other cross-cut deeper in the mine the tunnels are barren of water. This indicated, they asserted, it would be impossible for the interned miners, if any survive the explosion and feel themselves in isolated compartments, to exist for any considerable length of time.

Some Hope Held Out.

Reports of the survivors yesterday that they had heard voices in an adjoining passageway Wednesday night gave rise to belief that at least four men still remain alive inside the workings. The rescue crews reached the vicinity of the spot where Filini Artini and Charles Candali, the survivors, had taken refuge and found four bodies. Whether these men lived through the night or died when the explosion occurred probably will remain one of the mysteries of the tragedy.

Scenes of ruin and destruction wrought by the terrific explosion of bases and dust are described by those who are working for the aid of dead or living. Work of repairing the torn shaft has carried the rescue crews nearly half way through the mine shaft. It is declared, however, that weeks will be required to complete the work which is now being performed hastily.

STATE ROAD BUILDING IMPERILED

DRIVE IS MADE ON SYSTEM OF STATE ROADS

All Federal Aid Would Be Rejected and Business of

FIGHT IN THE HOUSE

Opponents of State Roads
System Win Their First
Step in Program

House Bill No. 233, which would abolish Federal Aid road work in North Dakota require the state highway commission to wind up its work survived the first brush over the bill in the house of representatives. The bill will be fought over later today in general orders and the issue of whether or not there shall be a "moratorium" on state highway work in North Dakota settled.

The bill was reported out by the highways committee, the majority for minor amendments and passage, the minority report signed by C. H. Goranson and L. H. Steen for indefinite postponement. Proponents of the bill asked that discussion be deferred until general orders. A motion to kill the bill failed, by a large vote, and "nay" vote, but because of the fact that there was coupled with the plea for adoption of the majority report the suggestion that the bill could be better disposed of in general orders, the vote may not have been a real test of strength.

There is, however, strong opposition to the state highway roads, more particularly to the Federal Aid roads and, according to expressions in the highway committee, against the plans and specifications laid down for dirt roads in North Dakota by the United States Bureau of Roads.

House Bill No. 202, one of the bills sponsored by American Legion members, was indefinitely postponed without objection from them. The bill extended the law providing English only shall be taught in the first eight school grades to include private and parochial schools. Objections of private and parochial schools reached (Continued on Page Three)

ODD FELLOWS BOARD HERE

Of Home Begins This
Year

The birthday anniversary of Abraham Lincoln will be observed by the state legislature Monday afternoon, with a public program in the house chamber beginning at 2:30 p. m.

Both houses will meet and adjourn shortly after the session opens for the purpose of joining in a tribute to the immortal leader of the country during the Civil War.

It is announced by Senator Lynn W. Sperry, chairman of the joint senate and house committee arranging for the program, that Civil War veterans are invited to occupy seats on the speaker's rostrum.

The program will include a vocal solo by Mrs. Anson Jackson, reading by Terrence Halloran, song by Frank Gale and an address by Judge A. M. Christenson.

No business will be transacted by the legislature on the legal holiday, except committee meetings and similar work.

PASSAGE OF HOUSE BILL NO. 233 WOULD BREAK NORTH DAKOTA'S WORD TO U. S. GOVERNMENT, IS CHARGE

Passage of house bill No. 233, pending in the legislature, "will break North Dakota's word to the federal government, accepting the provisions of the Federal Aid act," in the opinion of J. E. Kaulfuss, secretary of the North Dakota Good Roads association.

"One unforeseen result of the measure, if passed, is that all Federal Aid would be withdrawn from the state," he declared. "The counties and state would be left to finance the completion of all unfinished contracts. A necessary addition to the proposed measure, if it is to work at all, should provide a fund of perhaps $500,000 or more to take the place of the federal funds which have been relied on to complete the contracts still in force."

The measure would wind up the work of the highway commission and abolish state highway road building. "All state highway work would be shut off," he declared. "The maintenance of the state roads, including completed state aid and federal aid projects would be left to the counties. The proposed returns of auto money to the counties would, in a great many counties, be inadequate to properly maintain the completed state work and such counties would need to provide additional

STORAGE BILL TO BE PASSED BY SENATORS

Hamilton Bill Is Believed
Shelved to Make Way For Tofersud Bill Today

DEATH PENALTY LOST
Bill to Restore it Killed—3 Per Cent Minimum Interest Rate Voted

Establishment in the state of a system for storing grain on the farms, and for the obtaining of loans on the same by the farmers is provided for in Senate Bill No. 2, introduced by Senator Tofersud of Pierce county, which was taken up by the senate as a special order of business Friday afternoon and will be up for third reading and final passage today.

At the same time the senate majority vote to kill Senate Bill 47, introduced by Senator Hamilton of McHenry county, the purpose of which was to amend that of Senator Tofersud measure. The vote, the question of which of the two bills should be put up for passage was along party lines.

In urging on the senate the passage of his bill rather than that of Senator Tofersud, Senator Hamilton declared that the latter measure was not workable.

"I think both are workable in practice," interjected Senator Estes at this point.

Provides Machinery
Senator Tofersud in replying to Senator Hamilton pointed out that his bill provided the machinery for carrying out the provisions of the proposed law in every county of the state while under the McHenry county's bill it would have to be carried out by the state itself.

The vote on putting Senator Tofersud's bill up for passage and indefinitely postponing that of Senator Hamilton stood 25 to 23.

The senate had on its working clothes Friday and in a six-hour session which began at noon passed sixteen bills and killed several others.

Death Penalty Falls
Among the bills killed was that of Senator Baird which provided for the re-establishment of the death penalty for first degree murder. Although recommended to pass by a majority of the committee on state affairs the senate voted its indefinite postponement by a margin of one vote.

Senate Bill 74 making 9 per cent the maximum contract interest rate in the state passed by a vote of 29 to 20 in spite of warnings uttered by several of the senators that its passage was a mistake.

"You are driving capital out of the state every time you pass legislation of this kind," declared Senator Stevens of Ramsey county, one of the senators who argued against the bill. An amendment offered by Senator Kretschmar under which the bill would not have gone into effect until January 1, 1924 was voted down.

Without any opposition appearing the senate passed S. B. 144, which forbids bankers to apply deposits made in their banks to obligations owed them by the depositor without (Continued on Page Three) county funds to take care of such work.

"The maintenance of the Missouri river bridge would fall entirely on Burleigh and Morton counties."

"No further federal aid could come to North Dakota, and its allotment of $1,000,000 a year, all but $30,000 of which is derived from other states, would go back to the other states."

"No more retrogressive step could have been conceived than house bill No. 233, which, if not intended to benefit only one county specially, actually does so benefit principally one county."

"Senate bills Nos. 44, 45 and 46 are just the opposite in effect and nature. Instead of returning the auto money to counties these bills use them for the general development of the state at large by the improvement of a common system of state highways. In addition, counties which have gone into state and federal work will have funds refunded to them for use on county roads."

House bill No. 233 is finding strong support in Cass county, which would be returned about 10 per cent of all auto license fees collected. It is opposed particularly by those who declare that roads no longer are bound by county lines, and that the development of a state highway system would benefit the whole state.

STATE WANTS TO TRANSFER MANDAN SCHOOL GIRLS—NO ONE WANTS 'EM

No one wants the delinquent girls of the state training school now at Mandan.

There has been some sentiment for removing them from the school rather than to build additional buildings there.

Two years ago there was talk of changing the state science school at Wahpeton into a school for them. The good people of Wahpeton fought shy of having them in their midst and a plan has been worked out to make the school there one for trades and industry.

This year the "forestry" normal school at Bottineau has been the one suggested and by yesterday that city had a delegation of three in Bismarck to lay the viewpoint of the town before the legislators. It wouldn't be fair to the girls, says one investigator.

STATE BUDGET IS SLASHED BY UPPER HOUSE

Big Cut Made in Sum Asked
For School Aid, Secretary
Of State's Office

TOTAL CUT $351,780

First Big Budget Appropriation Bill Passed in This Form Almost Unanimously

Appropriations for the expenses of the executive, legislative, and judicial departments of the state government had for the public schools for the coming two year period, amounting to $1,895,750 were voted by the state senate.

The amount voted is $351,780 less than the total recommendation of the budget board for these departments which was $2,247,530. The appropriations are contained in Senate Bill 86 which passed the senate with only one dissenting vote.

The reduction from the amount recommended by the budget board was accomplished by the appropriations committee by small cuts in the appropriations recommended for nearly all of the state departments.

The largest cut made in the figures of the budget board in the bill as passed by the senate is in the department of state school aid. The appropriation for rural graded and consolidated schools is sliced an even $100,000 and the total appropriation for the department is cut from $806,600 to $699,600.

There is also a heavy cut in the appropriation for the secretary of state's office by reducing the appropriations for the state publicity pamphlet and the blue book. The appropriation for the department is reduced a total of $31,900 from the recommendations made by the state budget board.

Cut Attorney-General
In the attorney general's department the appropriation of $30,000 recommended for the employment of special agents is cut to $20,000.

The appropriation of $119,700 recommended by the budget board for the state railway commission is cut to $97,300 in the bill as passed by the senate.

Practically every department of the state government has felt the axe to some extent.

This is the largest appropriation bill which has been passed by the senate during the present session up to this time. Most of the other money bills which have gone through being for the making up of deficits or for the small state institutions.

None of the appropriations for the large institutions have as yet been reported out of the committee on appropriations.

Chicago, Feb. 10.—Robert Rutkowski, 13, was arrested in the railroad yards in a suburb for the killing of a boy named of the same age last night in a dispute over a card game. The lad was said to be waiting to board a freight train from the city.

LADD CALLED TO WHITE HOUSE BY PRESIDENT

DISCUSS SHIP BILL

Harding Asks Senator Oppos-
Other Remedy

Washington, Feb. 10.—Three agents of a special president's commission to study causes of car shortage and possibly other transportation causes during the coming recess of congress is being planned by President Harding who is expected to send concrete recommendations on the subject to the house and senate Interstate commerce committee within the next week.

The president recently discussed the matter at the conference to which he invited Senator Capper, chairman of the Farm Block; Gooding, Idaho; Couzens, Michigan; Norbeck, South Dakota; Brookhart, Iowa, and Ladd, North Dakota all Republicans. Those at the conference said there was general agreement that the agricultural industry required drastic relief to afford more freight cars, and that freight rates on agricultural products too high. Among other things proposed was that might study methods to bring about rate reduction.

During his talk the president discussed the administration shipping bill and told his visitors, all of whom except Gooding opposed the bill, to formulate some other remedy if they could not support the administration program.

ATTACHES OF BERLIN BARRED FROM RUHR

French Issue Orders Prohibit-

In Area

Paris, Feb. 10.—German cabinet ministers hereafter will be barred from the Ruhr by the France-Belgian forces, Premier Poincare of France and the foreign minister of Belgium at a conference here today drafted a brief note to this effect, which was immediately delivered to the German embassies in Paris and Brussels.

The note reads: "The Belgian and French governments have established that the visit of Chancellor Cuno to the Ruhr region and the action he took there had for its sole object and resulted in provoking a dangerous state of excitement, particularly among the big industrialists, chief functionaries and government employees."

"Under these conditions the French and Belgian governments, anxious to avoid especially in the interest of the population, disorders that might become sanguinary find it necessary to inform the government of the right and the government of the state that the ministers of the Right and the German State will no longer be permitted to enter the Ruhr."

HERE'S JOY FOR SOLONS—LIBERTY MEMORIAL BUILDING WON'T COST TAXPAYERS ONE CENT, SAYS OFFICIAL

Money spent on the Liberty Memorial building at the capitol is not paid by the taxpayers of the state, according to E. G. Wanner, secretary of the board of administration. To finish the building $130,000 is asked of the present legislature in addition to $300,000 already appropriated. The house passed the bill late yesterday.

When this portion of Dakota territory became the state of North Dakota the federal government set aside 500,000 acres of land as an allotment for state institutions. Of this 82,336 acres was set aside for buildings to be erected at the capitol, according to Carl Kositzky, land commissioner. None of the interest, income or proceeds of sale of this land was to be spent for any purpose but capitol buildings. This is the fund from which the money is coming for work on the memorial building, Mr. Wanner states.

Cash and investments of the capitol building fund on July 1, 1922 amounted to $552,022 according to Mr. Kositzky. Beside this the fund still has 26,312 acres of the land, the rest of it having been sold. This land is scattered over the state generally.

When the question of some sort of a memorial for the North Dakota soldiers who died in France, came up in 1919 it was at first planned to spend about $125,000 for a memorial statue in every county in the state, according to former senator W. J. Church of Benson county.

NO HOPE HELD OUT

Nature of Explosion Make
It Dubious if Any Could
Survive

Dawson, N. M., Feb. 10.—Covered with a thin blanket of snow which began falling at midnight Dawson this morning continued to search for head in the torn recesses of mine No. 1 owned by the Phillips-Dodge Corporation rent Thursday by an explosion.

With the recovery shortly after 6 o'clock this morning of five bodies in a shattered passageway the total number of dead had reached 41.

According to the figures given out by corporation officials there were 122 men in the mine when the explosion occurred. Of this number two emerged yesterday morning unharmed. Seventy-nine still remained in the mine.

Work of recovering the bodies is proceeding rapidly today. Two shifts of workers are entering the tunnel every two hours and workers are searching the premises.

Few Spectators at Entrance.
Only a small knot of spectators stood about the mine entrance today. Two days of realization of the enormity of the catastrophe have given relatives and friends of the interned miners a spirit of resignation which is reflected in their unemotional manner.

Hope has been abandoned virtually that there is any men still alive in the mine.

Experienced mining men point out that mine No. 1 is a dry mine, particularly at present. With the exception of cross-cut No. 4 from which two survivors escaped and one other cross-cut deeper in the mine the tunnels are barren of water. This indicated, they asserted, it would be impossible for the interned miners, if any survive the explosion and feel themselves in isolated compartments, to exist for any considerable length of time.

Some Hope Held Out.
Reports of the survivors yesterday that they had heard voices in an adjoining passageway Wednesday night gave rise to belief that at least four men still remain alive inside the workings. The rescue crews reached the vicinity of the spot where Filini Arini and Charles Candali, the survivors, had taken refuge and found four bodies. Whether these men lived through the night or died when the explosion occurred probably will remain one of the mysteries of the tragedy.

Scenes of ruin and destruction wrought by the terrific explosion of bases and dust are described by those who are working for the aid of dead or living. Work of repairing the torn shafts has carried the rescue crews nearly half way through the mine shaft. It is declared, however, that weeks will be required to complete the work which is now being performed hastily.

32 CARLOADS OF WHISKY HELD UP

Dry Agents Assembled at Portal Are Ordered to Return Home

Portal, Feb. 9.—Thirty-two carloads of whisky for which permits had been issued at Washington to ship from Kentucky distilleries to British Columbia, Can., have been detained at the shipping point on orders from Washington authorities. Portal officials were notified today. Together with the notification came orders from A. A. Stone, state prohibition director, at Fargo, for the local agents to disband and return to their various stations throughout the state. Action by Washington authorities is believed to have been the result of letters addressed by the liquor commission of British Columbia to the state director of North Dakota, and which in turn were forwarded to Washington by telegraph. The letters, although not officially made public are reported to have said that a portion of the drug companies in British Columbia through which the liquor was to have been consigned were concerned of a questionable character and were suspected of illicit liquor dealings.

Be Sure the Milk You Use is Clean

There is no question about the superior food value of milk and the greater economy of using more of it in place of other less nourishing and more costly foods. Five cents worth of bread and milk has more food value than any other kind of a lunch that can be prepared at three times the cost.

You should look carefully into the manner in which the milk you use is produced. Cleanliness is a most important factor. We have never hesitated to adopt any means that would make our milk cleaner and more wholesome. All our milk is clarified in our De Laval Milk Clarifier.

Knowing that there could be no certainty of milk being perfectly clean unless centrifugally clarified, we installed this machine. It removes impurities that are present to some extent in all milk, regardless of how carefully it is produced. The use of this machine is a positive assurance to you that our milk will be uniformly clean at all times.

By means of tremendous centrifugal force it expels from milk impurities that cannot be kept out and cannot be removed by straining or filtering.

De Laval Clarified Milk is the only milk you can be sure is perfectly clean. Insist upon getting it.

SHARPERS ON BIG DRIVE FOR WAR SAVINGS

Secretary Mellon Has Issued Warning to Holders of Government Securities

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 10.—Perpetual and increasing effort on the part of unscrupulous brokers and financial sharpers to secure control or possession of maturing Victory Notes and War Savings Certificates in exchange for questionable or worthless bonds and stocks has impelled the United States Treasury Department to repeat the warning issued by Secretary Mellon at the first of the year to holders of such government securities.

John A. Prescott, President of the Investment Bankers' Association of America said here today:

"In addition the Department has strongly endorsed the action of the Investment Bankers Association of America which recently adopted a resolution prohibiting its members from conducting campaigns for the trading out of Liberty Bonds, Victory Notes and War Savings Certificates into other securities," added Mr. Prescott who received today the government's endorsement and approval of the Association's action.

The President asserts that the present redemption of Victory Notes and War Savings Certificates, amounting in the first case to a total of $700,000,000 and in the other to the sum of $625,000,000, lends a fertile field to the activities of such unscrupulous stock promoters.

"These maturing Government securities are held by a large number of people who invested in them during the War from patriotic motives but who never before had made any investments and who therefore have little or no experience in such matters," says President Prescott. "It is this class of men and women who are being imposed upon by the promoters of fraudulent securities."

"To protect people who apply to them for advice in the matter, many bankers are strongly recommending the reinvestment of such funds in other Government securities or other sound investments of proven worth."

The resolution adopted by the Investment Bankers Association of America declares all members of the Association are hereby requested to refrain from any campaigns conducted either by public appeal circulars, advertisements, or the concerted action on the part of salesmen, which have for their purpose the inducing of owners of United States Government securities to exchange same for other forms of investments and that all members of this Association are urged to use all possible influence causing others to refrain from using similar campaigns."

"The following simple rules have been suggested by investment bankers of wide experience as an aid test for investors:

"Rule 1—Never permit a salesman to rush you into buying by the argument that the securities will be sold over night."

"Rule 2—Take the literature and the salesman's statement to your investment banker for analysis and investigation."

"Rule 3—Confine your investment transactions to investment houses and bankers of established reputation and responsibility."

"Rule 4—Do not deal with total strangers."

"Rule 5—If your commercial or investment banker's recommendation is to let the securities alone, do so."

"The Treasury Department states that there are still more than $200,000,000 of U. S. Victory 4 1/2% Notes of the Series A, B, C, D, E, and F, which were called for payment on December 15th but have not been presented for payment."

"The Treasury Department further announces that it will retire the uncalled Victory Notes at any time, at 100 and accretion of interest, if presented for payment."

New York, Feb. 10.—An official announcement is soon to be made that a group of American millionaires and industrial leaders have completed plans to put into operation a line of passenger airships of the Schuette-Lanz type between New York, and Chicago by the spring 1924.

Dr. Johann Schuette, president of the Schuette-Lanz Works, of Berlin, who is here attending conferences in New York, Washington and Chicago, confirmed this statement in an exclusive interview with NEA Service. He said:

"It is all settled. One year from now an air service between New York and Chicago will be in operation. Some of the biggest people in America are behind us."

"The first ship will carry 50 passengers. Construction of it will start when we close pending deals for factories."

"Other ships will carry 100. The fare from New York to Chicago will be the same as by railroad—about $50."

"Flying time will be 8 to 9 hours. One airship will leave New York at 11:30 at night, after the theater. Another will leave Chicago at 1 o'clock in the afternoon. Meals will be served; baths will be available."

"Next the line will be extended to St. Louis. Then to San Francisco. Next, a line connecting Los Angeles, San Francisco and Seattle. We will fly from New York to the Pacific Coast in a day."

Later larger ships are to be built for lines to Europe and South America. Negotiations are now under way, Dr. Schuette said, for terminal fields at Cape May, N. J., backing Dr. Schuette, whose dirigible works rival those of the Zeppelins, is the $50,000,000 American Investigation Corporation, which was organized a year ago to inquire into air possibilities.

GERMAN FLYERS GET MORE DISTANCE OUT OF PLANES

Berlin, Feb. 10.—For every $1,000 or its equivalent received in state subsidy during 1922, German airships covered nearly 35,093 kilometers as compared with approximately 11,132 in 1921, according to statistics announced here. The same ratio gives 225 passengers carried as against 45, and 1,906.07 kilograms of freight compared with 212.65 the previous year.

The total figures on subsidy and traffic for the year are not announced. It is claimed, however, that when these totals are compared with French traffic and the support given airplanes by the French government, Germany's airships netted far the greater returns. In proportion to the financial aid provided by the respective governments, the German flyers are said to have covered 225 times the distance and carried seventeen times more freight than did the French.

While aerial navigation in Germany is reported to have received twice the amount of federal aid in 1922 that it did during the twelve months preceding, the sum is declared to be ridiculously small when compared with this form of aid in England and France. The English subsidy is said to be more than five times as great, and the French more than elevenfold.

Figures for 1921 show that English aviators traversed 517,357 kilometers, French 2,950,705, and German 1,658,000. The passengers carried in English airships numbered 31,853, in French 10,336, and in German 12,297.

The computations are issued from German aerial circles for the purpose of showing that the home industry has made the most of its federal aid, and has been highly successful in overcoming the handicap fixed by the Entente in limiting the power of German machines.

"Lost Speech" OF LINCOLN NEVER TO BE FOUND

Bloomington, Ill., Feb. 10.—That the bone and sinew of Lincoln's lost speech was never lost and that the speech itself never has been found and never will be found, were the theories advanced by Dr. William E. Barton in an address delivered here recently on "Lincoln and Liberty." Dr. Barton spoke at the State Normal College on "The Education of Abraham Lincoln" and later at the Lions' club.

He spoke of the intimate relations of Lincoln with Bloomington, and especially of the "lost speech" delivered there at the convention at which the Republican party of Illinois was organized, May 29, 1856. Dr. Barton said:

"I believe that the Peoria speech must have contained the bone and sinew of the Bloomington speech which is known as Lincoln's lost speech. Such a speech a man does not create out of his sky; it takes time to grow in him. Secondly, I believe that Whitney secured much of the spirit and some of the phraseology of the lost speech. But in the third place I do not believe that the lost speech ever could have been reproduced."

"Lincoln probably tried to reproduce it a few nights later, at a ratification meeting in Springfield, but there came out to that meeting only Lincoln, his partner, William H. Herndon, and an otherwise distinguished man, John P. Lincoln. Lincoln was elected chairman without opposition, and he took the chair amid what the press report, prepared by Herndon, described as 'deafening calls.' But do you suppose that Lincoln repeated his lost speech to two men and a hall of otherwise empty chairs? He said just enough to get a good report in the papers. No man can deliver a great address to empty chairs."

"The reporters were so interested in Lincoln's great speech, they forgot to report it."

LAUGHTER TO REIGN WHEN STONE COMES

Laughter is sure to reign incessant at the Auditorium, Feb. 15th, where Fred Stone and his hilarious coterie of merry-makers will hold high carnival in the fantastic musical frolic "Tip-Top."

The whimsical series of misadventures of Tipton Topper, the character portrayed by Fred Stone, keep the audience convulsed with merriment from the rise to the fall of the curtain. Stone is undoubtedly one of the most amusing comedians of the present day. Possibly he is funnier in "Tip-Top" than at any other time. His surprising changes of character and make-up are irresistibly funny. The fun never flags while he is on the stage and it is a dangerous assertion to say when Mr. Stone is funniest. It seems in

"Tip-Top" as if he was funniest all the time. "Tip-Top" also has the merit of possessing an uncommonly melodious score. It was the last music composed by the late Ivan Caryll. The dancing of the London Palace Girls—Sixteen Lithesome maidens from Albion's shores—is a pleasing feature of a show that abounds plentifully with entertaining numbers by clever artists. No one in the big aggregation supporting Fred Stone shirks in the endeavor to contribute some novel stunt to this alluring extravaganza. The six Brown Brothers with their saxophones are as usual one of the most conspicuous specialties with their past and more than maintain their past reputation as musicians of the highest order of talent.

WRONG LISTING IN PHONE BOOK BASIS FOR LAW SUIT

Paris, Feb. 10.—Four years listing in the telephone directory as a "man midwife" has caused a Paris surgeon to bring action against the government, which is responsible for getting out the directory, to compel a change in his professional description. He asserts that letters, telephone calls, personal complaints and legal notices have been futile. Now he wants damages.

His attorney, in an effort to show how the state telephone service is snarled up in red tape, has dug up from the currency directory some queer examples of stupidity. He found that Bolo Pashaa, executed as a spy during the war, is still listed in the directory, as are other men who are dead or have disappeared. Two theaters, the Theater Rejane and the Theater Dore, whose names long have been changed, he says, have been unable to have corrections made in the directory.

OVER MILLION NOT COLLECTED

Total Yet Remaining From Seed Loans $1,697,043.27

Grand Forks, N. D., Feb. 10.—Government seed loan officials here have $1,697,043.27 to collect of the $3,437,513.89 which was loaned to the farmers of western North Dakota, eastern Montana, South Dakota, Washington and Idaho during 1921 and 1922. N. A. Olson, agronomist in charge of the office, said yesterday that the collections this year have begun to taper off but that they were coming in. He claimed that his field men were finding the work very hard at the present time due to the severe weather that they were encountering in the open country. He said, however, that money was coming in every day, and that while the loans were slackening up, the correspondence had grown heavier.

The loans collected this year thus far total approximately $1,200,000. Figures compiled on collections of the two years up until January 20, show that of the $1,557,407.80 loaned in 1921, $1,008,879.99 has been collected, leaving $548,527.81. In 1922 $1,480,106.69 was loaned out and up until January 20, of this amount $731,990.68 has been collected, leaving $748,116.06 to be collected.

EGGS FIVE INCHES IN DIAMETER ARE FOUND

Crystal Falls, Mass., Feb. 10.—Seven eggs, dark blue in color and about five inches in diameter, were found on a farm near here recently by Ivan Detroski, while engaged in blasting stumps. It was learned today. Shells of the eggs gave out a metallic sound when tapped. One of them broke and showed a perfect state of preservation. The Smithsonian institute will be asked to analyze the eggs, one of which is to be incubated by Detroski.

STORAGE BILL TO BE PASSED BY SENATORS

Due process of law, or the consent of the depositor in question. Jury Change Made. ed the education committee, which amended the bill to conform to the present law, and upon this decision Rep. Harrington moved the bill be killed. House bill No. 203, giving foreign corporations the right to exercise eminent domain, was re-referred to the judiciary committee after it appeared it would be killed. The bill, it was explained, applied particularly to telephone companies and power companies which desire to exercise the right of eminent domain, and which have done so, but because of recent court decisions in other states desire the law clarified. It was stated that it particularly applied to the Red River Power Company, Grand Forks, in the matter of extending electric power lines.

Corrects Statement

In passing house bill No. 123, appropriating $130,000 for the completion of the Liberty Memorial Building on the State Capitol grounds the house received an explanation from Rep. Watt, referring to remarks made the previous day to the effect that the house of representatives had exceeded its powers in planning a building costing more than the legislature appropriated.

When an appropriation asked to finish the building two years ago the estimate was $200,000 and $100,000 was appropriated. Mr. Watt said, it being understood the building could not be finished and that another appropriation would be asked at this session.

Rep. Maddock said his recollection was about the same as that of Rep. Watt. He said he thought that there ought to be one building in the capital city "we need not apologize for."

Although a committee report was for killing the bill of Reps. Lakie and McManus requiring that automobiles or other vehicles have side windows opposite the driver which shall be 12 by 18 an appeal by Rep. Lakie resulted in it going to general orders.

"This bill is introduced at the request of locomotive engineers," said Rep. Lakie, himself, a locomotive engineer of 20 years experience. "It is to prevent crossing accidents."

the minority for indefinite postponement. Rep. Jackson, speaking for the minority report, said that among other reasons for urging the bill be killed was that it would tend to create strike in local communities and to cause elections and expense to satisfy personal grudges.

During its session the house passed 15 bills, including many minor senate appropriation bills. Among the more important bills passed was Rep. Morton's bill providing a standard form of mortgage in North Dakota. It is claimed by supporters of the bill that there are more than a score of different forms of mortgages. With a standard form, with blank spaces left in the form can be printed on books used in offices of registers of deeds thus eliminating much extra clerk hire.

Mr. Church and C. W. McDonald, however advanced the idea that it would be better to erect a building at the capitol which would not only serve as a memorial but would house some departments now in the main capitol building. The legislature appropriated $200,000 for this purpose.

To House Supreme Court. As plans for the building took form however it was found that this sum would not be sufficient and during the 1921 session a bill introduced by A. A. Lieberbach was passed appropriating $100,000 of so much thereof as may be necessary for the purpose of completing the Liberty Memorial building. Two hundred thousand was asked but the amount was reduced.

It was decided to house a museum on the top floor of the building; the supreme court on the second floor; and to divide the entrance and grade floors between rooms for the state library, the adjutant general's department and the offices of the curator of the North Dakota historical society.

Finish For Building. It is the intention to finish the structure with travertine stone, a finer stone than Italian marble, according to Mr. Wanner. The floors are to be terrazzo, and the library book stacks of steel. The roof is glass and copper. The exterior is Bedford stone.

The design of the building is Greek. It is, roughly, 100 feet wide, 85 feet deep and 80 feet high with the roof sloping four ways from the peak in the center. It is block like in structure and is fronted with a row of stone columns. Broad stairs lead up to the entrance floor.

The interior design like the exterior is graceful. Broad stairs slope gently upward, split and wind on to the second story.

Construction where it is not stone is concrete, making the building completely fireproof. This is one reason why the supreme court with its records and library and the state library were assigned to the building.

OVER MILLION NOT COLLECTED

Total Yet Remaining From Seed Loans $1,697,043.27

Grand Forks, N. D., Feb. 10.—Government seed loan officials here have $1,697,043.27 to collect of the $2,437,513.89 which was loaned to the farmers of western North Dakota, eastern Montana, South Dakota, Washington and Idaho during 1921 and 1922. N. A. Olson, agronomist in charge of the office, said yesterday that the collections this year have begun to taper off but that they were still coming in. He claimed that his field men were finding the work very hard at the present time due to the severe weather that they were encountering in the open country. He said, however, that money was coming in every day, and that while the loans were slackening up, the correspondence had grown heavier.

The loans collected this year thus far total approximately $1,200,000. Figures compiled on collections of the two years up until January 20, show that of the $1,957,407.20 loaned in 1921, $1,008,879.99 has been collected, leaving $948,527.21. In 1922 $1,480,106.69 was loaned out and up until January 20, of this amount $731,590.68 has been collected, leaving $748,516.06 to be collected.

He stayed at the Spichal home until late afternoon, when with no coat and only a light cap, he struck off across the prairie for Dickinson. Arriving in the city he registered at a local hotel and went to his room, apparently suffering from exposure, being badly frostbitten by his long walk across the prairies in zero weather. He had previously been given first aid by Chief of Police W. L. Nichols.

SHARPERS ON BIG DRIVE FOR WAR SAVINGS

Secretary Mellon Has Issued Warning to Holders of Government Securities

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 10.—Per cent and increasing effort on the part of unscrupulous brokers and financial sharpers to secure control or possession of maturing Victory Notes and War Savings Certificates in exchange for questionable or worthless bonds and stocks has impelled the United States Treasury Department to repeat the warning issued by Secretary Mellon at the first of the year to holders of such government securities.

John A. Prescott, President of the Investment Bankers' Association of America said here today:

"In addition the Department has strongly endorsed the action of the Investment Bankers Association of America which recently adopted a resolution prohibiting its members from conducting campaigns for the trading out of Liberty Bonds, Victory Notes and War Savings Certificates into other securities," added Mr. Prescott who received today the government's endorsement and approval of the Association's action.

The President asserts that the present redemption of Victory Notes and War Savings Certificates, amounting in the first case to a total of $700,000,000 and in the other to the sum of $625,000,000, lends a fertile field to the activities of such unscrupulous stock promoters.

"These maturing Government securities are being held by large numbers of people who invested in them during the War from patriotic motives but who never before made any investments and who therefore have little or no experience in such matters," says Prescott.

"It is this class of men and women who are being imposed upon by the promoters of fraudulent securities."

To protect people who apply to them for advice in the matter, many bankers are strongly recommending the reinvestment of such funds in other Government securities or other sound investments of proven worth.

The resolution adopted by the Investment Bankers Association American declares all members of the Association are hereby requested to refrain from any campaigns conducted either by public appeal circulars, advertisements, the concerted action on the part of salesmen, which have the effect of inducing owners of United States Government securities to exchange same for other forms of investments and that all members of this Association are requested to use all possible influence causing others to refrain from using similar campaigns.

The following simple rules have been suggested by investment bankers of wide experience as an aid to investors:

"Rule 2—Take the literature and the salesman's statements to your investment banker for analysis and investigation."

"Rule 3—Confine your investment transactions to investment houses and bankers of established reputation and responsibility."

"Rule 4—Do not deal with total strangers."

"Rule 5—If your commercial or investment banker's recommendation is to let the securities alone, do so."

"The Treasury Department states that there are still more than $200,000,000 of U. S. Victory 4% Notes of the Series A, B, C, D, E, and F, which were called for payment on December 15th, but have not been presented for payment."

"The Treasury Department further announces that it will retire the uncalled Victory Notes at any time, at 100 and accrued interest, if presented for payment."

New York, Feb. 10.—An official announcement is soon to be made that a group of American millionaires and industrial leaders have completed plans to put into operation a line of passenger airships of the Schuette-Lanz type between New York, and Chicago by the spring of 1924.

Dr. Johann Schuette, president of the Schuette-Lanz Works, of Berlin, who is here attending conferences in New York, Washington and Chicago, confirmed this statement in an exclusive interview with NEA Service.

He said:

"It is all settled. One year from now an air service between New York and Chicago will be in operation. Some of the biggest people in America are behind us."

"The first ship will carry 50 passengers. Construction of it will start when we close pending deals for factories."

"Other ships will carry 100. The fare from New York to Chicago will be the same as by railroad—about $50."

"Flying time will be 8 to 9 hours. One airship will leave New York at 11:30 at night, after the dinner. Another starts from Chicago at 1 o'clock in the afternoon. Meals will be served; baths will be available."

"Next the line will be extended to St. Louis. Then to San Francisco. Next, a line connecting Los Angeles, San Francisco and Seattle. We will fly from New York to the Pacific Coast in a day."

Later larger ships are to be built for lines to Europe and South America. Negotiations are now under way, Dr. Schuette said, for terminal fields at Cape May, N. J., Bucking Dr. Schuette, whose dirigible works rival those of the Zeppelins, is the $50,000,000 American Investment Corporation, which was organized a year ago to inquire into air possibilities.

Among the subscribers are Marshall Field, Franklin D. Roosevelt, R. B. Mellon, Pittsburgh banker and brother of the secretary of the treasury.

LAUGHER TO REIGN WHEN STONE COMES

Laughter is sure to reign incessant at the Auditorium, Feb. 15th, where Fred Stone and his hilarious coterie of merry-makers will hold high carnival in the fantastic musical frolic "Tip-Top."

The whimsical series of misadventures of Tipton Topper, the character portrayed by Fred Stone, keep the audience convulsed with merriment from the rise to the fall of the curtain. Stone is undoubtedly one of the most amusing comedians of the present day.

His humor is "Tip-Top" than at any other time. His surprising changes of character and make-up are irresistibly funny. The fun never flags while he is on the stage and it is a dangerous assertion to say when Mr. Stone is funniest. It seems in comparison with this form of aid in England and France. The English subsidy is said to be more than five times as great, and the French more than elevenfold.

Figures for 1921 show that English aviators traversed 517,357 kilometers, French 2,950,705, and German 1,655,000. The passengers carried in English airships numbered

31,853, in French 10,338, and in German 12,297.

The computations are issued for the purpose of showing that the home industry has made the most of its federal aid, and has been highly successful in overcoming the handicaps fixed by the Entente in limiting the power of German machines.

"Tip-Top" as if he was funniest all the time. "Tip-Top" also has the merit of possessing an uncommonly melodious score. It was the last music composed by the late Ivan Caryll. The dancing of the London Palace Girls—Sixteen Lithesome maidens from Albion's shores—is a pleasing feature of a show that abounds piteously with entertaining numbers by clever artists. No one in the big aggregation supporting Fred Stone shrinks in the endeavor to contribute some novel stunt to this alluring extravaganza.

The six Brown Brothers with their saxophones are as usual one of the most conspicuous specialties with stone and more than maintain their past reputation as musicians of the highest order of talent.

Dr. Schuette said details of the plans are in the hands of Edward Schildauer, engineering expert for the American Investigation Corporation, and noted for his work on the Panama Canal.

The Schuette-Lanz rigid airships to be built here will be 100 feet long, with a volume of 2,400,000 cubic feet, traveling 80 miles an hour, and carrying, besides passengers, 30 tons of freight, post and express cargo.

The airships will be fitted out as luxuriously as the largest modern ocean liners," said Dr. Schuette. "There will be state cabins, an observation division, a dining room, a reception salon. You will be able to go to Chicago, transact your business and return to New York—all in 24 hours."

First announcement of preliminary negotiations with the Schuette-Lanz interests was made when the A. I. C. was organized a year ago, following a tour of Europe by a party of financial men and engineers headed by Benedict Crowell. Dr. Schuette was here last year, recently returned to complete the plans. He said he was returning to Europe today to look after some of the Schuette-Lanz subsidiary plants affected by the French occupation of the Ruhr.

"Before Dr. Schuette comes back to America next summer construction of the first airship will be under way," said Otto V. Schrenk, his counsel, representing him in association with Snowden A. Fahnstoeck, president of the A. I. C., in negotiating for plant facilities in this country.

GERMAN FLYERS GET MORE DISTANCE OUT OF PLANES

Berlin, Feb. 10.—For every $1,000 or its equivalent received in state subsidy during 1922, German airships covered nearly 35,093 kilometers, compared with approximately 11,132 in 1921, according to statistics announced here. The same ratio gives 225 passengers carried as against 45, and 1,906.07 kilograms of freight compared with 212.45 the previous year.

The total figures on subsidy and traffic for the year are not announced. It is claimed, however, that when these totals are compared with French traffic and the support given airplanes by the French government, Germany's airships netted far the greater returns. In proportion to the financial aid provided by the respective governments, German flyers are said to have covered ten times more distance and carried seventeen times more freight than did the French.

While aerial navigation in Germany is reported to have received twice the amount of federal aid in 1922 that it did during the twelve months preceding, the sum is declared to be ridiculously small when

Figures for 1921 show that English aviators traversed 517,357 kilometers, French 2,950,705, and German 1,655,000. The passengers carried in English airships numbered

He said he was returning to Europe today to look after some of the Schuette-Lanz subsidiary plants affected by the French occupation of the Ruhr.

"Before Dr. Schuette comes back to America next summer construction of the first airship will be under way," said Otto V. Schrenk, his counsel, representing him in association with Snowden A. Fahnstoeck, president of the A. I. C., in negotiating for plant facilities in this country.

WRONG LISTING IN PHONE BOOK BASIS FOR LAW SUIT

Paris, Feb. 10.—Four years listing in the telephone directory as a "man midwife" has caused a Paris surgeon to bring action against the government, which is responsible for getting out the directory, to compel a change in his professional description. He asserts that letters, telephone calls, personal complaints and legal notices have been futile. Now he wants damages.

His attorney, in an effort to show how the state telephone service is snarled up in red tape, has dug up from the currency directory some queer examples of stupidity. He found that Bolo Pashas, executed as a spy during the war, is still listed in the directory, as are other men who are dead or have disappeared. Two theaters, the Theater Rejane and the Theater Dore, whose names long have been changed, he says, have been unable to have corrections made in the directory.

"LOST SPEECH" OF LINCOLN NEVER TO BE FOUND

Bloomington, Ill., Feb. 10.—That the bone and sinew of Lincoln's lost speech was never lost and that the speech itself never has been found and never will be found, were the theories advanced by Dr. William E. Barton in an address delivered here recently on "Lincoln and Liberty." Dr. Barton spoke at the State Normal College on "The Education of Abraham Lincoln" and later at the Lions' club.

He spoke of the intimate relations of Lincoln with Bloomington, and especially of the "lost speech" delivered there at the convention at which the Republican party of Illinois was organized, May 29, 1856. Dr. Barton said:

"I believe that the Peoria speech must have contained the bone and sinew of the Bloomington speech which is known as Lincoln's lost speech. Such a speech a man does not create out of his sky; it takes time to grow in him. Secondly, I believe that Whitney secured much of the spirit and some of the phraseology of the lost speech. But in the third place I do not believe that the lost speech ever could have been reproduced."

"Lincoln probably tried to reproduce it a few nights later at a satisfaction meeting in Springfield, but there came out to that meeting only Lincoln, his partner, William H. Herndon, and an otherwise distinguished man, John P. Lincoln. Lincoln was elected chairman without opposition, and he took the chair amid what the press report, prepared by Herndon, is described as 'dramatic calls.' But do you suppose that Lincoln repeated his lost speech to two men and a hall of otherwise empty chairs? He said just enough to get a good report in the papers. No man can deliver a great address to empty chairs."

America Stands Aloof As Europe Burns

The very isolation which was voted our policy by the stupendous majority of seven million in 1920, the policy of detachment from the perils and broils that are distracting Europe, is now being savagely attacked by the critics of the Harding Administration as having no policy at all. "In all the history of American foreign relations, American prestige and influence was never at so low an ebb as it now is," says the Rochester Herald, which believes that if we were to offer advice or warning to France or Germany or any other nation, it would "snap its fingers in derision"; "first, because our Administration has no policy toward Europe; and secondly, because in its present relation to the Senate, which it fears, and to the American people, whose sentiments it mistakes, it is incapable of formulating a policy and adhering to it for as long as a fortnight." While there are many other newspapers that express a similar opinion, the Administration has its strong defenders. In playing "only the role of a benevolent bystander," and refusing "to be drawn into the malestrom," it reflects the best thought of the American people, declares the San Francisco Chronicle and "so long as the general attitude of the European peoples toward each other remains what it now is, the time for American mediation is inopportune."

In THE LITERARY DIGEST this week, the leading news-feature presents the American attitude toward Europe in all its many angles, reflecting public opinion in this country as expressed in the leading newspapers. Other very striking news-articles are:

See "Fun From the Press" at Your Picture Theater

In olden days when the cares of state burdened the king he would summon his jester. A round or two of banter and his good humor was restored. With the passing of time and the transfer of power from palaces to cottages the humble citizen demanded a jester for his entertainment. The cleverest jokesmiths of every realm were engaged by the press for the pleasure of the new majesty. But oftentimes the best of the jesters were removed from the far corners of the court of the public. So The Literary Digest now gathers the keenest of the wit and the cream of humor from all the world and embodies it in one uproarious motion picture, "Fun From the Press." It is the court jester to the American Public. Once a week a new one appears at the best theaters brimming with the latest laughs. Watch for it at your local theater. For your pleasure—"Fun From the Press," produced by The Literary Digest, Distributed by W. W. Hodkinson Corporation.

COOPERATING WITH THE SCHOOLS

Standards of the city schools under the administration of the present board and Supt. Saxvik are being bettered constantly. But the responsibility of the parents is great. No school system can reach its best development except there is cooperation on the part of parents and tax payers generally.

In several frank discussions, Supt. Saxvik has told the people of Bismarck just what the present administration is seeking to accomplish. There are evidences of results now only after a few months of his regime. As his hands and those of the board members are upheld, will there be greater progress.

The Rotary club is seeking a way to cooperate effectively with the school board and officials. But the cooperation must be city wide and take in every family interested and every citizen who feels that the schools after all form the very bulwark of the Republic.

In the first instance parents should know the teaching staff better. Teachers in Bismarck should be welcomed socially at the opening of each term and during the year functions should be given that will bring the parents in closer contact so that some of the problems might be more easily solved.

Larger cities have worked out a very good plan under the Parent-Teachers Association for each school. Group organizations might be desirable here to bridge the gap that too often exists between the school and the home.

Frequently the function of the school is misunderstood. Parents in too many instances feel that when their child has gone to school a great weight is off their minds and the entire responsibility is shifted upon the school authorities. If education is to bring the greatest returns for the money spent in inculcating ideals and preparing the younger generations for the battle of life and his place in society, the home must closely supplement the discipline and ideals of the school room. Inasmuch as the home practices a follow-up process in coordination with the school plan, will the system produce students of the first calibre.

The school board and its officials can maintain necessary requirements of curriculum, but they must have the complete endorsement and assistance of the community. Changes of a very vital nature have been made in requirements of students in the city schools. In the past, students were allowed to select a course that brought them to graduation without much mental effort. It is the desire of the school authorities to train students who when they have entered business life or institutions of higher learning will reflect credit upon themselves and the Bismarck City schools.

Surely such an aim should call for the greatest cooperation from the citizenry of Bismarck.

Visit your schools and get acquainted with the program under way.

TRADE MARDI GRAS

Bismarck should support loyally the efforts of the Business and Professional Women to visualize the industrial activities of Bismarck. It is no mean undertaking and will serve to acquaint people of the manifold businesses being conducted in the Capital City.

Civic bodies have offered their cooperation freely and the program in process of completion is most interesting and varied. Much time and effort have been spent in securing the consent of the business interests to display in some manner their various lines and the people should respond generously by packing the auditorium from pit to gallery.

This is the first stunt of its kind to be given in Bismarck and has its merits as a form of direct advertising. Some very unique stunts have been worked up and interspersed will be skits of interest that will amuse.

Remember the date, Tuesday evening, Feb. 13, at the Auditorium.

DESTRUCTION

Off hand you can rattle off the names of at least 20 military leaders who won lasting fame by destroying life and property.

But what do you know about Edward Jenner? England, his native country, has been honoring the one-hundredth anniversary of his death. Jenner was the physician who discovered how to prevent smallpox by vaccination.

This discovery, according to many scientists, has saved probably a thousand lives to every life destroyed in the last century by wars. Remember his name. Without his discovery, you might be dead now.

RADIO

Photographs, sent by wireless, are being received in Washington, D. C., in the laboratory of the inventor, F. Francis Jenkins. Their transmission, on the NOF wave length of 425 meters, may have been heard by you and improperly called static. Uncanny, to "hear" photographs. Quite plainly the Jenkins process has sent pictures of President Harding and others.

Jenkins' goal is radio movies. With good health, you should see them before 1930.

"OUCH!"

Rodger Dolan, investigating origin of speech, says "ouch" is the most interesting word in our language and all others. A child instinctively yells, "Ouch!" when it feels pain, whether it knows how to talk or not. The word comes naturally, is highly expressive of a mood and its sensations.

Our other fundamental words probably originated the same way. Moaning wind slowly says, "Wind." "Dog" is a lot like a canine's bark. Wheat in the field, bowing before a wind, quite plainly says "Whee-ee-at," if you listen. Is everything alive and does it talk? Maupassant thought so. They looked him up.

MODERN WORLD WONDERS

Sunday night, officials of the American Telegraph & Telephone company talked for more than an hour by wireless telephony, and were distinctly heard by a group of scientists 3,400 miles away, at Southgate, England. Eleven minutes after the first connected transatlantic speech had been carried overseas by this modern Mercury, whose feet are winged with Hertzsian waves, a confirmatory and congratulatory cable message was received.

Gen. Carly in his speech harked back to the time when, nearly fifty years ago, Alexander Graham Bell spoke the first complete sentence over an electrical telephone which was clearly heard by his associate, Thomas Watson. Carly described the era of development since that memorable day, March 10, 1876, as "the golden age of communications," having in mind the extension of human voice not only through space by the telephone, but also beyond the barriers of time by means of the phonograph.

But since the successful experiment of Sunday night was the result of utilizing both the telephone and the wireless waves, Gen. Carly might also, appropriately, have called attention to the fact that it was just about twenty years ago that Guglielmo Marconi first succeeded in transmitting the dots and dashes of a telegraph code across the Atlantic ocean, with the help of a sensitive detector which he had invented after a series of experiments beginning in 1894.

By 1907 regular press and private messages were winging their way from shore to shore with incredible speed. Today radio-telegraphy has demonstrated its practical utility in peace and war. Radio-telephony is now enjoying the dawn of its day. There are in this country between 1,000,000 and 1,500,000 radio receivers, at which between three and four million people listen to concerts and lectures from 600 broadcasting stations.

If this has been the development of twenty years, what may we not expect in the next two decades? Philadelphia Bulletin.

HOW MANY DRUG VICTIMS?

Statements to the effect that the drug-habit victims in the United States run up into the millions are manifestly only estimates and so-called statistics arrived at by gain the impression that an exaggerated ratio of the population are habitues. On the other hand, the honest citizen who comes in contact with the ravages of the habit on the human organization only a few times in his life might suppose that the number is included within a few hundreds. However, in making up the estimates it is the specialist who is consulted.

The evil is widespread in the prisons of the country and it is difficult in the case of persons under constant restraint, what shall be said of the ease of those whose liberty of action is impaired? As the drug working the greatest havoc is an importation, federal authority may properly regulate drastically its entrance into the country. Its use after surreptitious introduction is something in which effort should not be handicapped by technicalities in jurisdiction.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

THE MAN WHO NEVER FORGOT

Joseph Bisagno of San Francisco was, we imagine, a man with whom it was easy to be friendly. His will divided his comfortable fortune among 203 "friends who have been kind to me."

Sketching Joseph Bisagno from imagination an artist's pencil would naturally trace wavy curves. The sketch would include an eye with a twinkle and a hand extended ready for a clasp of good fellowship.

Bisagno is described as a bachelor and "clubman." Many a man who fits the description leads a gay, but actually unhappy and lonely life. Joseph Bisagno probably found his escape from such a fate. Fortunate indeed is a man able to list 203 persons he is willing to call friend.

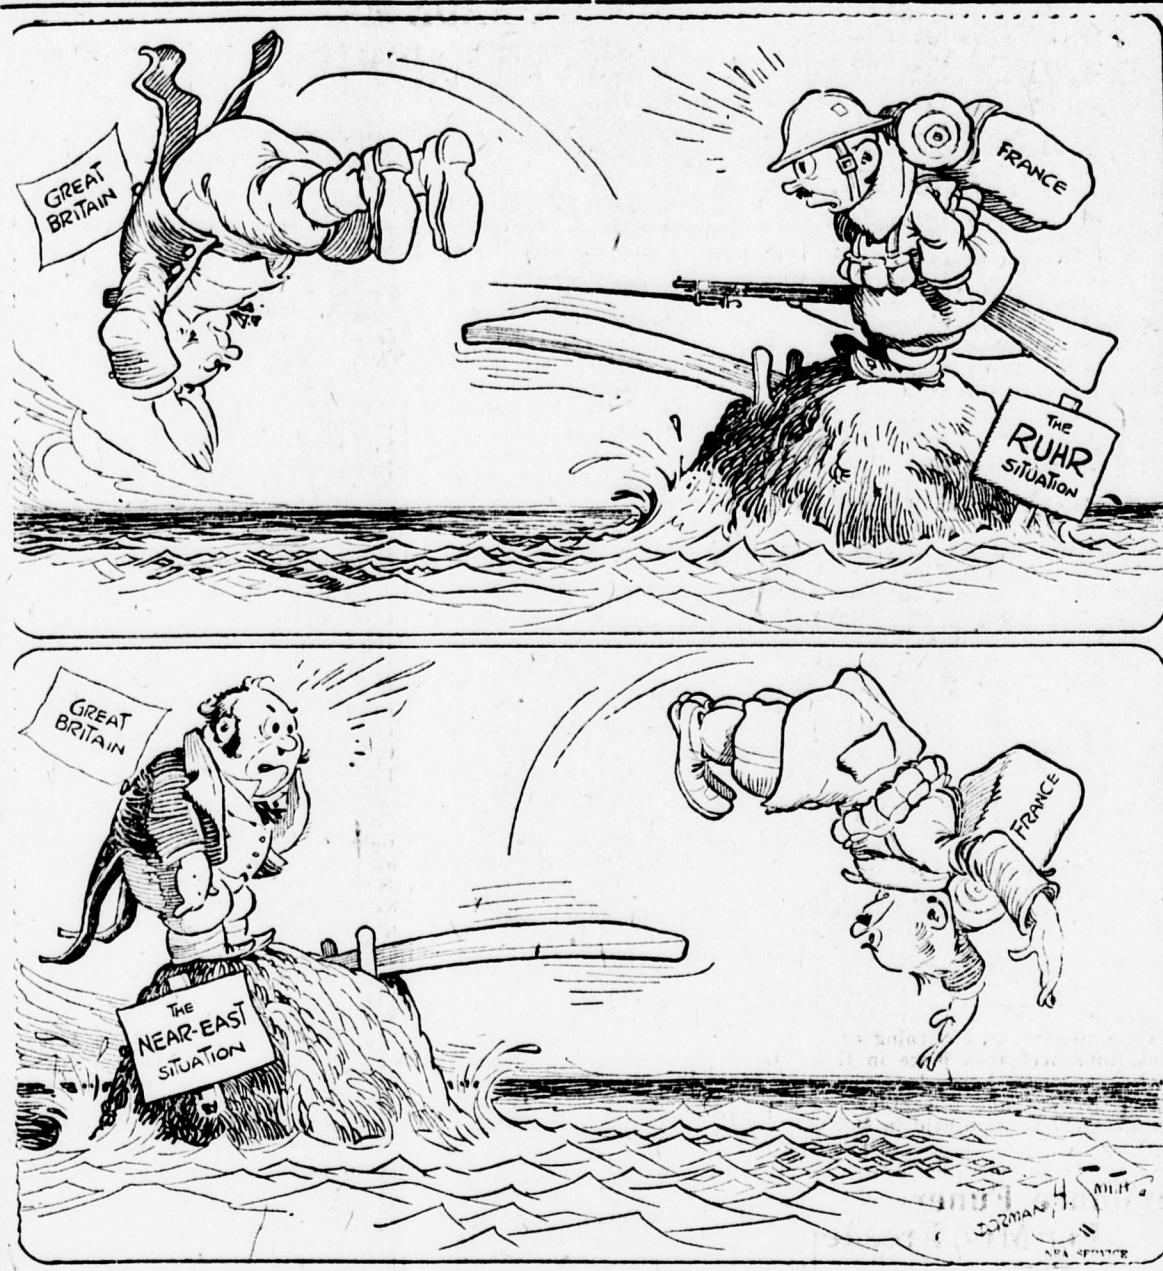

The Bisagno will indicates that he had known for years the disposition he intended to make of his fortune. It is easy to imagine him going about the world with a little black book, listing his kindly friends in all walks of life, adding a new name now and then when the spirit moved, even though he might never see the person again.

No wonder Joseph Bisagno had friends. A man with that sort of constant, onic for his dissection just couldn't help making the sort of friends he wanted to make.—New York World.

TIT FOR TAT

BEGIN HERE TODAY

A father's lack of confidence in his son's ability caused BARRY HOUSTON to inherit a lumber mill on condition that he maintain a high output. A series of mysterious accidents are preventing this and when young Houston arrives in the Colorado timber lands he finds that his father is dead.

FRED THAYER, has been systematically wrecking his plant. In making the discoveries, Houston has been assisted by BATESE RENAUD, an eccentric French-Canadian, who quit the practice of medicine and retired to a cabin to forget the double tragedy of his son's death in France and the murder of his wife. He nurses Houston back to health when the latter's automobile plunges over a cliff. Houston, to deceive Thayer, feigns complete loss of memory. In Bate's cabin, Houston meets

MEADINE ROBINETTE, a girl who owns the adjoining timber land. Suddenly, Thayer arrives from the railroad station with AGNES JERDON, a girl who has a mysterious hold on Houston.

CHAPTER VI

The woman in the buggy was holding forth her hands to him and he assisted her to the ground.

"Well," she asked, in a sudden fawning manner, "aren't you going to kiss me?"

"Of course," he took her in his arms. "I never thought of you."

"Naturally you didn't," it was Thayer again. "That's why I sent for her. Thought you'd get your memory back when—"

"I had my memory for long enough," Houston had turned upon him coldly. "to know that from now on I'll run this place. You're through!"

Three hours later, the last of the men paid off, Barry Houston approached the door of Bate's cabin. Barry raised his hand to knock and halted. His name had been mentioned angrily; then again—

"I don't know what it is, Bate. Fred wouldn't tell me, except that it was something too horrible for me to know. I can't be pleasant to him when I feel this way."

She ceased. Houston had knocked on the door. A second later, he entered the cabin, to return Meadine Robinette's cool but polite greeting.

"I'm afraid I've stayed longer than I intended," she apologized. "It's late. Good night."

Then she was gone. Houston looked at Bate, but the old French-Canadian merely waved a big hand.

"Woman," he said airily, "peuff! Eet is nothing. Eet will pass. Now, what mus' Bateese do?"

"At the mill? I wish you'd guard it for me. I'm going to Denver on the morning train to hire a new crew."

"Ah, oui. It shall be." The next evening brought Barry to Denver, and the three days which followed carried with them the swayed small of the employment offices and the gathering of a new crew. Then, tired, anxious with an eagerness that he never before had known, he turned back to the hills.

With his rough-faced men about him, Houston reached Tabernacle, and started the journey to the mill. Into the canon and to the last rise. Then a figure showed before him, a gigantic form, running and tumbling through the underbrush at one side of the road, a dog bounding beside him. It was Bate, excited, red-faced, his arms waving like wind-mills, his voice booming even from a distance.

"Mieu Houston! Mieu Houston! Bateese have fail! Bateese no good! He watch for you—he is glad you come! Bateese ashame! Ashame!" They had reached the top of the downward in slow, but steady succession, to disappear, then to show themselves, bobbing jerkily outward toward the center of the lake. A thunderous voice was booming beligerently from the distance:

"You lie—unstan? Bateese say you lie—if you no like eet, Jus' what-you-say—climb up me! Unstan? Climb up me!"

Houston broke into a run, racing along the flume with constantly increasing speed as he heard outburst after outburst from the giant trapper, interrupted by the lesser sounds of argumentative voices in reply.

Finally he heard a woman's voice, pulling that loss of memory stunt again. Thats' one of his best little bets," he added sneering, "to lose his memory."

"I've never lost it yet." "No—then you can forget things awfully easy. Such as coming out here and pretending not to know who you were. You can't even remember the night you murdered your own cousin, can you?"

"That's a—"

"See, sheriff? His memory's bad." All the malice and hate of pent-up enmity was in Fred Thayer's voice now. One angry word went forward in accusation. "He can't even remember how he killed his own cousin. But if he can't, I can. Ask him about the time when he slipped that mallet in his pocket at a prize fight and then went on out with his cousin. Ask him what became of Tom Jerdon after he lost that prize fight. He won't be able to tell you of course. He loses his memory; all he will be able to remember is that his father spent a lot of money and hired some good lawyers and got him out of it. He won't be able to tell you a thing about how his own cousin was found with his skull crushed in, and the bloody woman mallet lying beside him—the mallet that this fellow had stolen the night before at a prize fight! He won't—"

"I've told you about ten times," he answered, addressing himself to Bate. "We're building a connection on our flume."

"Our flume?" Houston gasped the words. "I own this flume and this lake and this flume site—"

"If your name's Houston, I guess you do," came the answer. "But if you can read and write, you ought to know that while you may own it, you don't use it. That's our privilege from now on, in cold black and white. As far as the law is concerned, this is our flume, and our water, and our lake, and our wood back there. And we're going to use all of 'em, as much as we please—and it's your business to stay out of our way!"

CHAPTER VIII

came just as quickly, a recoil with the red splashes of anger blazing before his eyes, the surge of hot blood sweeping through his veins, the heat of conflict in his brain. His good hand clenched. A leap and he struck the foreman on the point of the chin, sending him reeling backward, while the other men rushed to his assistance.

"That's my answer to you!" shouted Houston.

"Run tell Thayer!" shouted the foreman, and then with recovering strength, he turned for a rant hook. But Bateise seized it first!

"Here comes somebody!" Bateise's grip tightened about the rant hook and he rose, squaring himself. Houston seized the club and stood waiting a few feet in the rear, in readiness for any one who might evade the bulwark of blows which Bateise evidently intended to set up.

A moment more, and Bateise, with a sudden exclamation, allowed his rant hook to drop to the ground.

"Eet is Thayer, and Wade, the sheriff from Montview, and his deputy. Peuff! Have he fool heem too?"

The sheriff pulled two legal documents from his pocket, and unfolding them, had shown Houston the bottom of each. Barry's eyes opened wide.

"That's that's my signature," came at last.

"This one's the same, isn't it?" The second paper was shoved forward.

"Yes."

"Then I don't see what you're kicking about. Do you know anyone named Jenkins, who is a notary-public?"

"Yes."

"Then look 'em over. If that isn't a lease to the lake and flume and flume site, and if the second one isn't a contract for stampage at a dollar and a half a thousand feet—well, then, I can't read."

"But I'm telling you that I didn't give it to them," Houston had reached for the papers with a trembling hand. "I don't remember—"

"Didn't I tell you, Thayer had turned the sheriff. There he goes, pulling that loss of memory stunt again. Thats' one of his best little bets," he added sneering, "to lose his memory."

"That's a—"

"See, sheriff? His memory's bad." All the malice and hate of pent-up enmity was in Fred Thayer's voice now. One angry word went forward in accusation. "He can't even remember how he killed his own cousin. But if he can't, I can. Ask him about the time when he slipped that mallet in his pocket at a prize fight and then went on out with his cousin. Ask him what became of Tom Jerdon after he lost that prize fight. He won't be able to tell you of course. He loses his memory; all he will be able to remember is that his father spent a lot of money and hired some good lawyers and got him out of it. He won't be able to tell you a thing about how his own cousin was found with his skull crushed in, and the bloody woman mallet lying beside him—the mallet that this fellow had stolen the night before at a prize fight! He won't—"

"I've told you about ten times," he answered, addressing himself to Bate. "We're building a connection on our flume."

"Our flume?" Houston gasped the words. "I own this flume and this lake and this flume site—"

"If your name's Houston, I guess you do," came the answer. "But if you can read and write, you ought to know that while you may own it, you don't use it. That's our privilege from now on, in cold black and white. As far as the law is concerned, this is our flume, and our water, and our lake, and our wood back there. And we're going to use all of 'em, as much as we please—and it's your business to stay out of our way!"

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

By Olive Barton Roberts

Mr. Stamps, the fairy postmaster of the Fairland Postoffice, sent Nancy and Nick to start a postoffice in Wigglein Land, under the sea.

It was at the Cross Roads where Cap'n Pennywinkle sat all day long on Curly, his sea-horse, directing traffic in the right direction.

Cap'n Pennywinkle kept the big fishes from bumping into the little fishes, and he was very busy, I can tell you.

Nancy and Nick were busy, too, sorting out Valentines the Wigglein sent to each other. So busy that they hadn't time to stop for meals. Charley Cod sent Shiny Shad a valentine like this:

"The ocean's full of water,
And the land is full of stones,
The whale is full of blubber,
But the shad is full of bones."
That made Shiny Shad mad and he sent this one back to Charley Cod:

"A man went fishing in the ocean
With a hook and line and rod,
Just because he had a fond notion,
That he'd catch old Charley Cod.
Bye and bye he up and caught him,

HUNDREDS WILL HELP STAGE FIRST TRADE MARDI GRAS AT AUDITORIUM TUESDAY

Hundreds of people will participate in Bismarck night. In the final count 84 business firms have entered the Mardi Gras of Trade to be held at the auditorium Tuesday evening, Feb. 13, although not all the places will be represented at the big advertising event.

Between the steady stream of advertising displays of everything from ready-to-wear and jewelry to wholesale, grocery, farm implements, and laundry will be interspersed interesting stunts, dancing, music, loggones, and similar entertainment in order that there shall not be a "let down" from beginning to the end of the big program.

The committee of members of the Business and Professional Women's club under whose auspices the advertising campaign is being staged have exerted every means to make this a real Bismarck product. There have been literally hundreds working to make the affair one of the biggest ever held in Bismarck.

HUNDREDS WILL HELP STAGE FIRST TRADE MARDI GRAS AT AUDITORIUM TUESDAY

Hundreds of people will participate in Bismarck night. In the final count 84 business firms have entered the Mardi Gras of Trade to be held at the auditorium Tuesday evening, Feb. 13, although not all the places will be represented at the big advertising event.

In addition to single entries many organizations, the Rotary, Association of Commerce, Town Crisps, and others are putting on stunts, or skits.

Between the steady stream of advertising displays of everything from ready-to-wear and jewelry to wholesale, grocery, farm implements, and laundry will be interspersed interesting stunts, dancing, music, prologues, and similar entertainment in order that there shall not be a "let down" from beginning to the end of the big program.

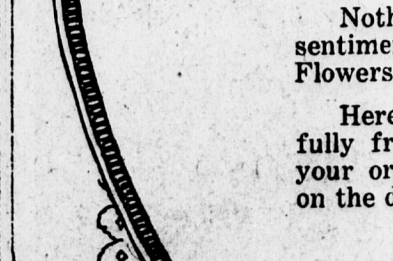

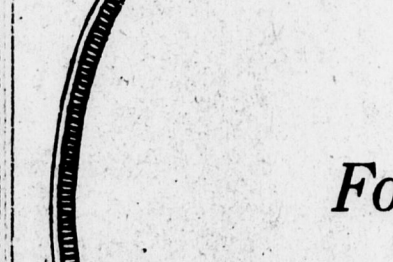

The committee of members of the Business and Professional Women's club under whose auspices the advertising campaign is being staged have exerted every means to make this a real Bismarck product. There have been literally hundreds working to make the affair one of the biggest ever held in Bismarck.

Those in charge declare that they think the Mardi Gras of Trade will become an annual affair. Final dress rehearsal of those taking part will take place at the auditorium Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock when everybody who expects to appear must be present in full dress.

The names of the business houses and the representatives who will participate in the celebration include the following:

In him was the embodiment of the fundamental principle of the philosophy of the American people—equality of opportunity.

His life and work is a justification of our American Individualism. A poor boy, born in a log cabin, he rose to lead the nation through the greatest crisis in its history to the end that the vital elements of its government be perpetuated.

It is fitting that we should revere his memory in order that what he typified shall be preserved for ourselves.

COOPERATING WITH THE SCHOOLS

Standards of the city schools under the administration of the present board and Supt. Saxvik are being bettered constantly. But the responsibility of the parents is great. No school system can reach its best development except there is cooperation on the part of parents and tax payers generally.

In several frank discussions, Supt. Saxvik has told the people of Bismarck just what the present administration is seeking to accomplish. There are evidences of results now only after a few months of his regime. As his hands and those of the board members are upheld, will there be greater progress.

The Rotary club is seeking a way to cooperate effectively with the school board and officials. But the cooperation must be city wide and take in every family interested and every citizen who feels that the schools after all form the very bulwark of the Republic.

In the first instance parents should know the teaching staff better. Teachers in Bismarck should be welcomed socially at the opening of each term and during the year functions should be given that will bring the parents in closer contact so that some of the problems might be more easily solved.

Larger cities have worked out a very good plan under the Parent-Teachers Association for each school. Group organizations might be desirable here to bridge the gap that too often exists between the school and the home.

Frequently the function of the school is misunderstood. Parents in too many instances feel that when their child has gone to school a great weight is off their minds and the entire responsibility is shifted upon the school authorities. If education is to bring the greatest returns for the money spent in inculcating ideals and preparing the younger generations for the battle of life and his place in society, the home must closely supplement the discipline and ideals of the school room. Inasmuch as the home practices a follow-up process in coordination with the school plan, will the system produce students of the first calibre.

The school board and its officials can maintain necessary requirements of curriculum, but they must have the complete endorsement and assistance of the community. Changes of a very vital nature have been made in requirements of students in the city schools. In the past, students were allowed to select a course that brought them to graduation without much mental effort. It is the desire of the school authorities to train students who when they have entered business life or institutions of higher learning will reflect credit upon themselves and the Bismarck City schools.

Surely such an aim should call for the greatest cooperation from the citizenry of Bismarck.

Visit your schools and get acquainted with the program under way.

TRADE MARDI GRAS
Bismarck should support loyally the efforts of the Business and Professional Women to visualize the industrial activities of Bismarck. It is no mean undertaking and will serve to acquaint people of the manifold businesses being conducted in the Capital City.

Civic bodies have offered their cooperation freely and the program in process of completion is most interesting and varied. Much time and effort have been spent in securing the consent of the business interests to display in some manner their various lines and the people should respond generously by packing the auditorium from pit to gallery.

This is the first stunt of its kind to be given in Bismarck and has its merits as a form of direct advertising. Some very unique stunts have been worked up and interspersed will be skits of interest that will amuse.

Remember the date, Tuesday evening, Feb. 13, at the Auditorium.

DESTRUCTION
Off hand you can rattle off the names of at least 20 military leaders who won lasting fame by destroying life and property.

But what do you know about Edward Jenner? England, his native country, has been honoring the one-hundredth anniversary of his death. Jenner was the physician who discovered how to prevent smallpox by vaccination.

This discovery, according to many scientists, has saved probably a thousand lives to every life destroyed in the last century by wars. Remember his name. Without his discovery, you might be dead now.

RADIO

Photographs, sent by wireless, are being received in Washington, D. C., in the laboratory of the inventor, F. Francis Jenkins. Their transmission, on the NOF wave length of 425 meters, may have been heard by you and improperly called static. Uncanny, to "hear" photographs. Quite plainly the Jenkins process has sent pictures of President Harding and others.

Jenkins' goal is radio movies. With good health, you should see them before 1930.

"OUCH!"

Rodger Dolan, investigating origin of speech, says "ouch" is the most interesting word in our language and all others. A child instinctively yells, "Ouch!" when it feels pain, whether it knows how to talk or not. The word comes naturally, is highly expressive of a mood and its sensations.

Our other fundamental words probably originated the same way. Moaning wind slowly says, "Wind." "Dog" is a lot like a canine's bark. Wheat in the field, bowing before a wind, quite plainly says "Whee-ee-at," if you listen. Is everything alive and does it talk? Maupassant thought so. They looked him up.

EDITORIAL REVIEW

Comments reproduced in this column may or may not express the opinion of The Tribune. They are presented here in order that our readers may have both sides of important issues, while the merits are discussed in the press of the day.

MODERN WORLD WONDERS

Sunday night, officials of the American Telegraph & Telephone company talked for more than an hour by wireless telephony, and were distinctly heard by a group of scientists 3,400 miles away, at Southgate, England. Eleven minutes after the first, connected transatlantic speech had been carried overseas by this modern Mercury, whose feet are winged with Hertzian waves, a confirmatory and congratulatory cable message was received.

Gen. Cartay in his speech harked back to the time when, nearly fifty years ago, Alexander Graham Bell spoke the first complete sentence over an electrical telephone which was clearly heard by his associate, Thomas Watson. Cartay described the era of development since that memorable day, March 10, 1876, as "the golden age of communications," having led to the extension of human voice not only through space by the telephone, but also beyond the barriers of time by means of the phonograph.

But since the successful experiment of Sunday night was the result of utilizing both the telephone and the wireless waves, Gen. Cartay might also appropriately have called attention to the fact that it was just about twenty years ago that Guglielmo Marconi first succeeded in transmitting the dots and dashes of a telegraph code across the Atlantic ocean, with the help of a sensitive detector which he had invented after a series of experiments beginning in 1895.

By 1907 regular press and private messages were winging their way from shore to shore with incredible speed. Today radio-telegraphy has demonstrated its practical utility in peace and war, and radio-telephony is now enjoying the dawn of its day. There are in this country between 1,000,000 and 1,500,000 radio receivers, at which between three and four million people listen to concerts and lectures from 600 broadcasting stations.

If this has been the development of twenty years, what may not be expected in the next two decades? Philadelphia Bulletin.

HOW MANY DRUG VICTIMS?

Statements to the effect that the drug-habit victims in the United States run up into the millions are manifestly only estimates and called statistics arrived at by the use of multiples on a proportional basis are generally not very dependable. One estimate places the number at 4,000,000, but whether there are exactly that number or many less no one can tell. A specialist who deals with the cases of drug victims may naturally gain the impression that an exaggerated ratio of the population are habitues. On the other hand, the honest citizen who comes in contact with the ravages of the habit on the human organism only a few times in his life might suppose that the number is included within a few hundreds. However, it is the opinion of the writer that the number is somewhere between the two.

The evil is widespread in the prisons of the country and it is difficult in the case of persons under constant restraint, what shall be said of the case of those whose liberty of action is unimpaired? As the drug working in the greater part of an important, federal authority may properly regulate drastically its entrance into the country. Its use after surreptitious introduction is something in which effort should not be handicapped by technicalities in jurisdiction. St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

THE MAN WHO NEVER FORGOT

Joseph Bisagno of San Francisco was, we imagine, a man with whom it was easy to be friendly. His will divided his comfortable fortune among 203 friends who have been kind to him.

Sketching Joseph Bisagno from imagination an artist's pencil would naturally trace easy curves. The sketch would include an eye with a twinkle and a hand extended ready for a clasp of good fellowship.

Bisagno is described as a bachelor and "human." Many a man who fits the description leads a gay, but actually unhappy and aimless life. Joseph Bisagno probably found his escape from such a fate. Fortunate indeed is a man able to list 203 persons he is willing to call friend.

The Bisagno will indicate that he had known for years the disposition he intended to make of his fortune. It is easy to imagine him going about the world with a little black book, listing his kindly friends in all walks of life, adding a new name now and then when the spirit moved, even though he might never see the person again. No wonder Joseph Bisagno had friends. A man with that sort of constant tonic for his disposition just couldn't help making the sort of friends he wanted to make. New York World.

A father's lack of confidence in his son's ability caused BARRY HOUSTON to inherit a lumber mill on condition that he maintain a high output. A series of mysterious accidents are preventing this and when young Houston arrives in the Colorado timber lands he finds that his over-enthusiasm, FRED THAYER, has been systematically wrecking his plant. In making the discoveries, Houston has been assisted by a French-Canadian, an eccentric French-Canadian, who quit the practice of medicine and retired to the cabin to forge the double tragedy of his son's death in France and the murder of his wife. He nurses Houston back to health when the latter's automobile plunges over a cliff. Houston, to deceive Thayer, feigns complete loss of memory. In Batiste's cabin, Houston meets MEDAINE ROBINETTE, a girl who owns the adjoining timber land. Suddenly, Thayer arrives from the railroad station with AGNES JERROLD, a girl who has a mysterious hold on Houston.

CHAPTER VI
The woman in the buggy was holding forth her hands to him and he assisted her to the ground. "Well," she asked, in a sudden fawning manner, "aren't you going to kiss me?" "Of course!" He took her in his arms. "I was so surprised, Agnes, I never thought of you." "Naturally you didn't." It was Thayer again. "That's why I sent for her. Thought you'd get your memory back when—"

CHAPTER VII
The next morning Barry went to Denver, and in a week returned to Tabernacle, thence across country to camp. He found no Batiste but there was something else which held Houston's interest for a moment and which stopped him, staring wonderingly into the distance. A new shield had made its appearance on the side of the jutting mountain nearest the dam. Ludwig were tumbling downward in slow, but steady succession, to disappear, then to show themselves, bobbing jerkily outward toward the center of the lake. A thunderous noise was booming belatedly from the distance: "You lie—unstan!" Batiste said you lie—if you no like eet, just—what you say—climb up me! Can't climb up me!" Houston broke into a run, racing along the flume with constantly increasing speed as he heard outburst after outburst from the giant trapper, interjected by the lesser sounds of argumentative voices in reply. Faintly he heard a woman's voice, then Batiste's in sudden command: "Go on—you no belong here. Batteese, he handle this. Go long!" Houston, at last made the turn of the road as it followed the flume, and saw the broad back of the Canadian, squared as he was, half across the road. Facing him were five men with shovels and hammers, workmen of the Blackburn camp. Houston looked more closely then gasped. It was another flume; they were making a connection with his own.

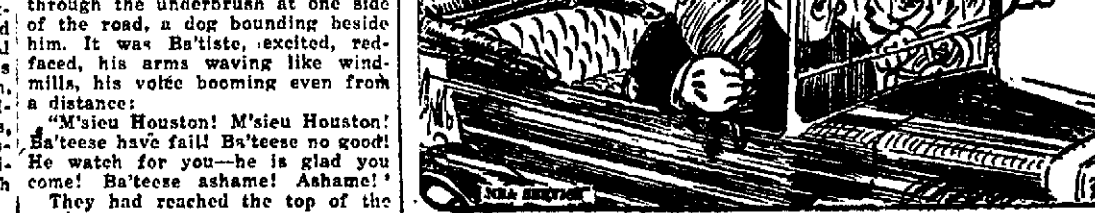

CHAPTER VIII
The statement took Houston off his feet for a moment; but recovery came just as quickly, a recoil with the red splashes of anger blazing before his eyes, the surge of hot blood sweeping through his veins, the heat of conflict in his brain. His good hand clenched. A leap and he struck the foreman on the point of the chin, sending him reeling backward, while the other men rushed to his assistance.

"That's my answer to you!" shouted Houston. "Run tell Thayer!" shouted the foreman, and then with recovering strength, he turned for a split second. But Batiste seized it first. "Here comes somebody!" Batiste's grin lightened about the cant hook and he rose, squaring himself. Houston seized the club and stood waiting a few feet in the rear, in readiness for any one who might evade the bulwark of blows which Batiste evidently intended to set up. A moment more, and Batiste, with a sudden exclamation, allowed his cant hook to drop to the ground. "Eet is Thayer, and Wade, the sheriff from Montview, and his deputy. Peuff! Have he fool heem too!" The sheriff pulled two legal documents from his pocket, and unfolding them, had shown Houston: the bottom of each, Barry's eyes opened wide.

"That's—that's my signature," came at last. "This one's the same, isn't it?" The second paper was shoved forward. "Yes." "Then I don't see what you're kicking about. Did you know anyone named Jenkins, who is a notary-public?" "Yes." "Then look 'em over. If that isn't a lease to the lake and flume and flume site, and if the second one isn't a contract for stumpage at a dollar and a half a thousand feet—well, then, I can't read."

"But I'm telling you that I didn't give it to them," Houston had reached for the papers with a trembling hand. "I don't remember." "Didn't I tell you?" Thayer had turned to the sheriff. "There he goes pulling that loss of memory stunt again. That's one of his best little bits," he added sneering, "to lose his memory." "I've never lost it yet." "No—then you can forget things awfully easy. Such as coming out here and pretending not to know who you were. You can't even remember the night you murdered your own cousin, can you?" "That's—"

"See, sheriff? His memory's bad." All the malice and hate of pent-up enmity was in Fred Thayer's voice now. One gnarled hand went forward in accusation. "He can't even remember how he killed his own cousin. But if he can't, I can. Ask him about the time when he slipped that matter in his pocket for prize fight and then went on out with his cousin. Ask him what became of Tom Langdon after they left that prize fight. He won't be able to tell you, of course. He loses his memory; all he will be able to remember is that his father spent a lot of money and hired some good lawyers and got him out of it. He won't be able to tell you a thing about how his own cousin was found with his skull crushed in, and the bloody wooden mallet lying beside him—the mallet that this fellow had stolen the night before at a prize fight! He won't!" (Continued in Our Next Issue)

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS
By Olive Barton Roberts
Mr. Stamps, the fairy postmaster of the Fairland Postoffice, sent Nancy and Nick to start a postoffice in Wigglem Land, the land of the sea.

It was at the Cross Road, where Cap'n Pennywinkle sat all day idling on Curly, his sea-horse, directing traffic in the right direction. Cap'n Pennywinkle kept the bus fishes from bumping into the little fishes, and he was very busy, I can tell you.

Nancy and Nick were busy, too, sorting out Valentines: the Wigglem sent to each other. So busy that they hadn't time to stop for mail. Charley God sent Shiny Shad a valentine like this:

"The ocean's full of water, And the land is full of stones, The whale is full of blubber, But the shad is full of bones." That made Shiny Shad mad and he sent this one back to Charley God:

"A man went fishing in the ocean With a hook and line and reel, Just because he had a fond notion, That he'd catch old Charley God. Bye and bye he up and caught him. And he slowly pulled him in. But his friends declare he bought 'him."

At the grocer's in a tin," declared Charley, when he read it. "Mebbe they do put codfish in cans sometimes, but it's because they're so good. I'm sure no one ever heard of canning a shad anyhow." But that put a notion into Charley's head and he wrote a valentine to Mack Mackerel. This was the valentine he dropped into the Wigglem postoffice a little later and which Nancy handed out to Mr. Mackerel as he passed by:

"Mack Mackerel lived in the sea, And so terribly salty turned he, That he curled up his tail, And flopped into a mail. Now they serve him for breakfast and tea."

"Oh, hucks!" said Mack peevishly. "I s'pose Charley God thinks he's smart. But I've learned how to keep away from mackerel nets and I'm not going to be served for either breakfast or tea. So there! If that's all the mail there is for me, I'll be moving along, thank you." (To Be Continued.)

WEAR YOUR RUBBERS
(In Popular Ballad Style)
By Berton Bracey
A young man sat in a theater, To watch the actors play, But he coughed so loud that the other folks Couldn't hear what the actors did say.

The usher did come down to him And said, "You'll have to leave." And as young man left the place These words he seemed to sneeze.

Chorus
"Always wear your rubbers," That's what my mother said. But I would never listen And now my nose is red, I wish that I had hearkened To what my mother said, "Always wear your rubbers And you will not catch cold!"

A young man met a maiden, Whose pumps were made of suede, Her stockings rolled below the knees, Of silk were thinly made; He said to her, "Oh, little girl, You'll get a cold in your head, I'll marry you and teach you what My dear old mother said."

Chorus
"Always wear your rubbers," My mother said, and she Most surely said a'mouthful In those kind words to me. Oh, darling, hear the warning My mother wisely told, "Always wear your rubbers And you will not catch cold!" (Copyright, 1923, NEA Service.)

SOME BOXING CHAMPIONS TO BE DETHRONED

Strenuous Opposition Faces Some of the Men Resting On Their Laurels

New York, Feb. 10.—Five of the eight universally recognized boxing champions are likely to be dethroned this year, in the opinion of ring critics, while titleholders in the other three divisions probably also will face strenuous opposition in an effort to retain their laurels. The general outlook is for one of the most interesting title programs in many years.

Puristic kings considered to be in imminent danger of losing their world crowns are: Jimmy Wilde, of England, flyweight; Joe Lynch, of New York, bantamweight; John Kilbane, of Cleveland, featherweight; Johnny Wilson, of Boston, middleweight; and Battling Siki, of France and Senegal, light heavyweight.

The other titleholders, Benny Leonard, of New York, lightweight; Mickey Walker, of Elizabeth, N. J., welterweight, and Jack Dempsey, heavyweight, are favored to stay at the top, but while the opposition in their respective ranks is not considered more than threatening, there is always the chance that any of them will receive a fatal tap on the chin.

Chief interest promises to center upon Dempsey, who plans an active outdoor campaign after a lapse of nearly two years since his memorable fight with George Carpentier. Several of his challengers may make it more than interesting for the champion, but the present prospect is that he will successfully retain his laurels.

Wilde, who has been inactive for some time, has been challenged for a title match by Pancho Villa, the scrappy Filipino who took the American flyweight title away from Johnny Buff last year. Villa not only has taken the measure of the best American flyweights, but he has frequently gone out of his class with decisive success.

Strong Backing. The Filipino is ambitious to dethrone Buff's feat in holding both the flyweight and bantamweight belts and has a following which would be ready to back him strongly in a title bout with Joe Lynch. The latter faces two other formidable challengers in Carl Tremaine, hard-hitting Cleveland, and Irish Johnny Curtin, of Jersey City, N. J.

Kilbane has agreed to stake his featherweight title against the Frenchman, Eugene Criqui, holder of the European championship, in a match at the Polo grounds on Decoration day. Criqui, young and aggressive, will have much in his favor against Kilbane, who has slowed up as a result of a long period of inactivity.

Wilson, another inactive champion, will have difficulty retaining his title if he accepts the challenges of several formidable 160-pound boxers, including Tommy Loughran, of Philadelphia, Harry Greb, of Pittsburgh, who also holds the American New-heavyweight title, and Bryan Downey of Cleveland. Wilson is not recognized as champion in a number of states because of his tactics in avoiding championship matches.

Experts believe either Greb, Gene Tunney, or Tom Gibbons, the leading American light heavyweights, capable of lifting the world's title held by Battling Siki, who acquired it by knocking out Carpentier. The Senegalese is still recognized in this country as the champion despite the running of French authorities depriving him of the title because of alleged improper conduct. Reports have been current that he intends to seek several bouts in the United States during the summer.

Benny Leonard faces several strong contenders in the lightweight ranks, including Lew Tander, of Philadelphia; Sailor Freedman, and Charles White, both of Chicago. But the fact that he has previously conquered all three inclines critics to the opinion that he will continue to remain supreme.

The suggestion has been made frequently that Leonard, however, may find difficulty keeping inside the lightweight limit of 135 pounds and eventually be compelled to seek honors in the welterweight division. Although he failed last summer in an attempt to take this title from Jack Britton, losing to the veteran on a foul, Leonard would be a formidable opponent for Walker, who captures the championship from Britton. Dave Shade of California, and Andy Thomas, of New York, are other top-ranking welterweights.

Bonehead Play That Won Prize Last Season

To Pitcher Hodge of Chicago and Second Basemen Ward of New York goes the distinct prize of figuring in two of the funniest plays of the year in which solid ivory played an important feature.

In a game at Detroit, Hodge was doing the pitching for Chicago and was enjoying a slight lead when he got himself in to a jam by a foolish bit of by-play.

Of late years there has been much complaint by the players over rough

"LYD" HUTCHINSON AND HER LEAD DOG "DOC"

The most interesting figure in the American Dog Derby which starts at Ashton, Idaho, on February 22, is "Lyd" Hutchinson.

Pitcher Hailed As Recruit Has Thrice Been Resurrected By The Majors

There are dippy-dew turns in careers of ball players. One of the latest peculiar twists is found in the record of George Boehler, a pitcher who has just been purchased by the Pittsburgh Pirates from the Tulsa club of the Western League.

The records can be pulled to prove Boehler is the find of the minor leagues. He had a remarkable record in 1922.

But turn back to the pages of a year ago. It is discovered that this same Boehler, with the same Tulsa club had the worst record of any pitcher in the minor league circuit, winning four games and losing 20.

Boehler is not in the class of young phenoms. He could not develop any new fancy twisters that would cause this unexpected spurt.

Racing Dates Eliminate Clash of Turfdom's Classics

Who was the best three-year-old of 1922?

Morvich, after winning the Kentucky Derby, failed miserably. Pillory, winner of the Preakness, also lacked consistency.

The star three-year-old performers, Bunting, Lucky Hour, Kai-Sang, Morvich, Whiskaway, Snob II, balls in play. The concrete grandstands are responsible for such a condition, as usually when a ball hits the rough surface it is rendered unfit for play.

In the game at Detroit, with a runner on second and the score very close, Hodge decided the ball in his possession was unfit to be pitched. Instead of getting the umpire's o. k. Hodge simply threw the ball into the Detroit dugout.

The umpires were more surprised than anyone in the park over Hodge's act. There was nothing for them to do but score the runner from second, as the rules give the right to advance two bases on a ball thrown into the dugout.

LOCAL TEAM FINEST TO APPEAR IN V. C.

Principal Ward in Letter to Supt. Saxvik Commends Local Team Highly

In a letter to Supt. H. O. Saxvik, Principal M. W. Ward of the Valley City schools, commends Mr. Saxvik upon the fine spirit shown by the local basketball boys in their playing and states that in his opinion they are the first team in the state. He says in his letter:

Valley City, N. D., Feb. 3, 1923

Supt. H. O. Saxvik, Bismarck, N. D.

I cannot refrain from writing you in commendation of your fine basketball team which played at Valley City last night.

We have always enjoyed Bismarck's visits to our high school, but this one I believe we enjoyed more than any previous one. Your team played a fine, clean game, and I believe I am correct in saying that it is the finest team that has appeared in Valley City this season with the single exception of the University Stars who played here during the holidays. Their defense was invincible and their offense at times dazzling. Their shooting was of a very high order. In fact in every department of the game they showed superior work which would compare most favorably with college basketball.

I am of the opinion that just now you have the best high school basketball team in the state. I hope it will continue to improve throughout the season, and if our own team cannot win the state championship we will certainly be boosting for Bismarck and will exert with you if your team brings home the cup.

Both on and off the floor your boys were perfect gentlemen. It was a delight to us to welcome them, and their visit here will go down as one of the most pleasant occasions of the year.

Permit me also to congratulate you upon your coach. He is a continual inspiration to his team, and much of their success is due to his keen foresight and instruction.

Very truly yours, M. S. WARD.

Harvard Coach Says Conlon Is Certain to Star

By NEA Service

Boston, Feb. 9.—The greatest big league prospect I have seen in years. A college player who has shown me more ability than did either George Sisler or Frankie Frisch in their college days.

That is the glowing tribute paid "Jocko" Conlon, Harvard shortstop, by Jack Slattery, baseball coach at that institution.

Conlon has just been signed by the Boston Braves and will get a chance to make good Slattery's prediction.

Slattery, a former big league player, aside from his duties as Harvard coach, is a big league scout. No doubt, his influence caused Conlon to sign with the Braves.

"I saw Frisch play when he was at Fordham, and looked Sisler over when he starred at Michigan, but I am willing to go on record as saying neither of these two stars looked any better than Conlon in their college days."

"I miss my guess if he isn't a sensation in the National League inside of a couple of years," concluded the Harvard coach.

Changes System For Breaking in Recruit Umpires

By NEA Service

Chicago, Feb. 9.—A number of new faces will be seen on the American League staff of umpires the coming season. President Johnson has already signed two new men in "Red" Ormsby and Clarence Rowland. It is said that the head of the American League has two other new umpires under advisement.

President Johnson intends to adopt a different system this year relative to his new men. Instead of having them make their debut in a regular league game, he intends that they will get accustomed to big league methods during the spring training.

Working on those lines, President Johnson has assigned Ormsby to work the exhibition games in the south with the Washington team, while Rowland will be with the Athletics.

It is believed that such training will greatly aid the new men to get away to a good start. It will sharpen them up on a big league methods and incidentally give President Johnson a certain line on their real ability.

Detroit has Developed Four Young Stars

Last season marked Ty Cobb's second as a big league manager. In those two campaigns the Georgian has done exceedingly well with the material at hand. From a lowly second division berth he has lifted the Tigers to a place among the first three.

But that isn't all that Cobb has done. Under his regime Detroit has developed four of the most promising youngsters in the American League.

The quartet referred to includes: Emory Rigney, shortstop; Herman Pillette, pitcher; Lefty Blue, first baseman; and Johnny Bender, catcher. Last season was the first in fast company for Rigney and Pillette, while Blue and Bender have each seen two years of major league service.

In Blue and Rigney, Detroit has an exceptional pair. Both are real ball players, being fast on the bases. .300 hitters, and dangerous in the proverbial pinch. Each is a good fielder, Rigney especially having done a great deal to plug up the hole around short which cropped out when "Donie" Bush began to falter. Bender has already taken rank with the best receivers in the game today. He has a good head, is fast as catchers go, possesses a real arm, and unlike many other backstops in the circuit, is a splendid hitter. Last season he batted .325, topping the American League catchers in this respect.

Herman Pillette, in his initial year in the majors, proved a star of the first magnitude, finishing well up to the head of the list. He was without a doubt the best hurler among the Johnsonian recruits of 1922. And he came to the Tigers practically unheralded.

All of these youngsters have more than made the grade since coming into the league, and incidentally have done a great deal toward giving Detroit a winning combination.

YOST OUTLINES QUALIFICATIONS OF GOOD COACH

Chicago, Feb. 10.—The successful college football coach has to have a thorough general education, understand boys intimately, be able to plan battles and develop strategy, must command the admiration and respect of everyone with whom he comes in contact, and must be physically able to stand long hours and a strenuous life.

That is the analysis of a coach, according to Fielding H. Yost, veteran team builder of the University of Michigan.

Unlike other teachers in the University his success is measured from years to year by the victories, his team wins over opponents who are striving just as hard for victory. If the students of a professor in any college were required to pass the same test in competition with rivals from other seats of learning, and the professors were ranked accordingly, there would be a lot of them doomed to failure, Coach Yost observes.

"Too often," he said today, "coaches are judged only by their success in turning out winning teams. The coach who strives for an ideal and commands the respect and admiration of his men and makes those with whom he comes in contact better men, is successful as a coach whether his team's record shows it or not."

"His hours of labor are long as he must do considerable work and study off the field. The time which a coach spends on the gridiron with his men is only a small part of the time which he must devote to his job."

"New plays must be worked out, opinions of other coaches must be given consideration and finally the entire plan of development decided upon, with every detail of instruction cared for."

"In addition the coach must be accepted favorably by the public, alumni and students who are loud in their praise of winners and equally loud in their criticisms of losers."

"He must hold the respect of all and his ideals must be high."

"One of the first requisites of a coach is executive ability and besides his ability to inspire confidence of his men, he must have unlimited ability in imparting this knowledge to them."

McGraw Boasts Great Record as Manager

When it comes to piloting winning ball clubs the palm must go to John "Mugsy" McGraw of the New York Giants. For McGraw, like Tennyson's immortal brook, goes triumphantly on.

Since the fiery Irishman first took

100 Straight

charge of the managerial duties of the Giants back in 1903, the National League entry in New York has established a most remarkable record. In the 20 campaigns McGraw has been at the helm, his teams have won the pennant on no less than eight occasions, and but for Merkle's ivory play in 1908 would have topped the flag that year.

Added to this, the Giants, under McGraw, have finished second eight times, third once and four times. Only in one season did McGraw fail to land his club in the first division, that being in 1915, when it came in last.

Thus, out of 20 campaigns, the Giants have finished "one-two" 16 seasons, besides winning three out of seven world championships, there being no titular entries in 1904, McGraw's first pennant-winning year.

But though McGraw has no doubt won more success as a manager of major league ball clubs than any other pilot in the game, still the wily leader cherishes one fond ambition which he hopes to put across before he quits the pastime for good. And that is to top four pennants in a row—something which no one has yet been able to accomplish.

Back in 1913, McGraw seemed well on the way to realize his "dream," the Giants having taken the honors three times running, but the following season his hopes were blasted when the Boston Braves put on their unprecedented victories march, going from eighth place in July to the flag, thus edging out the McGraw clan which had been just about been counted "in."

VALLEY CITY HERE TONIGHT

Valley City's fast basketball team will clash with Bismarck high's "Demons" at the high school gymnasium here tonight at 8 o'clock. Bismarck won from Valley City in their first general Valley City recently, 27 to 17, and the Valley City team, which has some exceptionally fast men, is out for revenge. The team suffered through luck on the smudged Mandan floor last night, losing to Mandan high by a score of 36 to 15.

MINERS OPPOSE UNDER GROUND COAL STORAGE

Springfield, Feb. 10.—Storage of reserve supplies of coal underground, as suggested recently by H. Foster Bain, director of the United States Bureau of Mines, would be impossible in the soft coal fields of Illinois, according to Robert Meull, state director of mines and minerals.

Liability of combustion resulting in a disastrous fire, would make this proposed means of insuring stability in the coal industry impractical, Mr. Meull said.

"To attempt this in Illinois mines, however, would simply mean to start so many mine fires," said Mr. Meull. "Combustion fires from mine refuse are now one of the problems of mining in this state. This danger would be only increased by attempting any large storage underground, and then of course it is subject to shrinkage."

Seasonable demands for coal could be stabilized by the storage plan, Director Bain of the Bureau of Mines suggested in a report to the United States coal commission. His plan was to keep the miners at work, but to hoist coal only as requirements demanded.

DECISIONS OF SUPREME COURT
From Case County
Joseph Keller, Plaintiff and Respondent, vs. City of Fargo, a municipal corporation, Defendant and Appellant.
Syllabus:
Appellant, a municipal corporation, licensed respondent as a master plumber. As such he dug a trench in appellant's street, and, on refilling the same, left the excess of dirt piled on each side of the sidewalk. A pedestrian, passing along the walk at the place where the dirt was piled, fell and was injured. She sued the appellant city, alleging negligence by reason of the dirt piles, and had a verdict, the jury finding that, by reason of mud on the walk the same was not reasonably safe. Prior to the trial, appellant notified respondent of the pending suit and requested him to defend. This he refused to do, but he consulted with the appellant's attorneys, was present during the trial, and was himself sworn as a witness. On a suit by appellant city to recover over from respondent licenses for damages paid, it is held:
(1) A municipal corporation required to pay damages to a person injured on its street has, unless it is also a wrongdoer, a remedy over against a third person who is at fault and has so used the streets as to produce the injury.
(2) Where reasonable notice of the pendency of the action is given and an opportunity to defend afforded to a third party against whom a defendant claims a right of action to recover over, the judgment therein entered against such defendant is conclusive as against such third party as to all matters material and necessarily determined by such judgment.
(3) Where, in a suit against a defendant municipal corporation by a person injured, the physical cause of the injury is established, but the question of the responsibility for the creation of such physical cause by a third party is not material or necessary to a determination of the action, such third party in a suit against it by the defendant to answer over is not concluded as to the matter of negligence on his part, and such defendant corporation must establish that such physical cause was created through his negligence.
(4) Under such circumstances, Sections 6641 et seq. C. L. 1913, do not enlarge the liability of a third party who has given a bond of indemnity against any negligence on his part or any unfaithful or inadequate work done by him.
Appeal from the District Court, Case County, Hon. M. J. Englett, Judge. Action by Joseph Keller against the City of Fargo, a municipal corporation. Issue on the counterclaim. Judgment for plaintiff. Defendant appeals from the judgment and from an order denying its motion for judgment and notwithstanding the verdict or for a new trial. Judgment reversed and a new trial ordered.

Rats Won't Nibble At Match Heads
Chicago, Feb. 10.—The poor mouse and rat have been suffering under an undesired stigma for centuries, getting the blame for fires which have cost untold millions, according to conclusions reached by the Fire Underwriters Laboratories, Ltd., of this city, after exhaustive tests.

As a result of experiments conducted by the laboratories' experts on more than 100 rats and mice the conclusion was reached that the rodents will not nibble matches.

For the tests more than fifty rats and as many mice were trapped and confined in cages for three days without food or water. Then a quantity of straw and 150 matches were placed in each cage. Observation over periods of from one to five days showed that neither the mice nor rats so much as nibbled at the match heads.

WHEAT PRICES BOOSTED ON EARLY SALES

September deliveries here topped a new high price record for the season, 121-4. On the advance, however, profit-making sales for early delivery, especially in May delivery, brought about something of a reaction. The opening ranged from 3-8 to 1-4 cents higher, with May, $1.21 3-4 to $1.22, and July, $1.14 3-4 to $1.14 7-8.

DECISIONS OF SUPREME COURT

From Cass County
Joseph Keller, Plaintiff and Respondent, vs. City of Fargo, a municipal corporation, Defendant and Appellant.

Syllabus:
Appellant, a municipal corporation, licensed respondent as a master plumber. As such he dug a trench in appellant's street, and, on refilling the same, left the excess of dirt piled on each side of the sidewalk. A pedestrian, passing along the walk at the place where the dirt was piled, fell and was injured. He sued the appellant city, alleging negligence by reason of the dirt piles, and had a verdict, the jury finding that, by reason of mud on the walk the same was not reasonably safe. Prior to the trial, appellant notified respondent of the pending suit and requested him to defend. This he refused to do, but he consulted with the appellant's attorneys, was present during the trial, and was himself sworn as a witness.

On a suit by appellant city to recover over from respondent licenses for damages paid, it is held:
(1) A municipal corporation required to pay damages to a person injured on its street, unless it is also a wrongdoer, a remedy over against a third person who is at fault and has so used the streets as to produce the injury.

(2) Where reasonable notice of the pendency of the action is given and an opportunity to defend afforded to a third party against whom a defendant claims a right of action to recover over, the judgment therein entered against such defendant is conclusive as against such third party as to all matters material and necessarily determined by such judgment.

(3) Where, in a suit against a defendant municipal corporation by a person injured, the physical cause of the injury is established, but the question of the responsibility for the creation of such physical cause by a third party is not material or necessary to a determination of the action, such third party in a suit against it by the defendant to answer over, is not concluded as to the matter of negligence on his part, and such defendant corporation must establish that such physical cause was created through his negligence.

(4) Under such circumstances, Sections 6641 et seq. C. L. 1913, do not enlarge the liability of a third party who has given a bond of indemnity against any negligence on his part or any unlawful or inadequate work done by him.

Appeal from the District Court, Cass County; Hon. M. J. Enart, Judge. Action by Joseph Keller against the City of Fargo, a municipal corporation. Issue on the countercclaim. Judgment for plaintiff. Defendant appeals from the judgment and from an order denying its motion for judgment and notwithstanding the verdict or for a new trial. Judgment reversed and a new trial ordered.

Opinion of the court by Nussle J. Attorneys for Plaintiff and Respondent.
W. H. Shure, City Attorney, Fargo, N. D.
Attorney for Defendant and Appellant, B. F. Spalding of Counsel, Fargo, N. D.

Rats Won't Nibble At Match Heads

Chicago, Feb. 10.—The poor mouse and rat have been suffering under an undesired stigma for centuries, getting the blame for fires which have cost untold millions, according to conclusions reached by the Fire Underwriters Laboratories, Ltd., of this city, after exhaustive tests.

As a result of experiments conducted by the laboratories' experts on more than 100 rats and mice the conclusion was reached that the rodents will not nibble matches.

For the tests more than fifty rats and as many mice were trapped and confined in cages for three days without food or water. Then a quantity of straw and 150 matches were placed in each cage. Observation over periods of from one to five days showed that neither the mice nor rats so much as nibbled at the match heads.

SOME BOXING CHAMPIONS TO BE DETHRONED

Strenuous Opposition Faces Some of the Men Resting On Their Laurels

New York, Feb. 10.—Five of the eight universally recognized boxing champions are likely to be dethroned this year, in the opinion of ring critics, while titleholders in the other three divisions probably also will face strenuous opposition in an effort to retain their laurels. The general outlook is for one of the most interesting title fights in many years.

Emil Zuccato, considered to be in imminent danger of losing his world crown are: Jimmy Wilde, of England, flyweight; Joe Lynch, of New York, bantamweight; John Kilbane, of Cleveland, featherweight; Johnny Wilson, of Boston, middleweight; and Battling Siki, of France and Senegal, light heavyweight.

The other titleholders—Benny Leonard, of New York, lightweight; Mickey Walker, of Elizabeth, N. J., welterweight; and Jack Dempsey, heavyweight—are favored to stay at the top, but while the opposition is not so strong, there is considerable interest in the prospect of a fight with George Carpentier. Several of his challengers may make more than interesting for the champion, but the present prospect is that he will successfully retain his laurels.

Wilde, who has been inactive for some time, has been challenged for a title match by Pancho Villa, the scrappy Filipino who took the American flyweight title away from Johnny Buff last year. Villa not only has taken the measure of the best American flyweights, but he has frequently gone out of his class with decisive success.

Strong Backing.
The Filipino is ambitious to duplicate Buff's feat in holding both the flyweight and bantamweight belts, and has a following which would be ready to back him strongly in title bout with Joe Lynch. The latter faces two other formidable challengers in Carl Tremaine, hard-hitting Cleveland, and Irish Johnny Curtin, of Jersey City, N. J.

Kilbane has agreed to stake his featherweight title against the Frenchman, Eugene Criqui, holder of the European championship, in a match at the Polo grounds on Decoration day. Criqui, a young and aggressive, will have much in his favor against Kilbane, who has slowed up as a result of a long period of inactivity.

Wilson, another inactive champion, will have difficulty retaining his title if he accepts the challenges of several formidable 160-pound boxers, including Tommy Loughran, of Philadelphia, Harry Greb, of Pittsburgh, who also holds the American light heavyweight title, and Bryan Downey, of Cleveland. Wilson is not recognized as champion in a number of states because of his tactics in avoiding championship matches.

Experts believe either Greb, Gene Tunney, or Tom Gibbons, the leading American light heavyweights, capable of lifting the world's title held by Battling Siki, who acquired it by knocking out Carpentier. The Senegalese is still recognized in this country as the champion despite the raising of French authority, depriving him of the title because of alleged improper conduct. Reports have been current that he intends to seek several bouts in the United States during the summer.

Benny Leonard faces several strong contenders in the lightweight ranks, including Lew Tendler, of Philadelphia; Sailor Freedman, and Charles White, both of Chicago. But the fact that he has previously conquered all three inclines critics to the opinion that he will continue to remain supreme.

The suggestion has been made frequently that Leonard, however, may find difficulty keeping inside the lightweight limit of 135 pounds and eventually be compelled to seek honors in the welterweight division. Although he failed last summer in an attempt to take this title from Jack Britton, losing to the veteran on a foul, Leonard was a formidable opponent for Walker, who captured the championship from Britton. Dave Shade of California, and Andy Thomas, of New York, are other top-ranking welterweights.

Bonehead Play That Won Prize Last Season
Every year in the majors produces one or more bonehead plays that stand out as the classics of their particular line.

To Pitcher Hodge of Chicago and Second Baseman Ward of New York goes the discredit of figuring in two of the funniest plays of the year in which solid ivory played an important feature.

In a game at Detroit, Hodge was doing the pitching for Chicago and was enjoying a slight lead when he got himself in to a jam by a foolish bit of play.

Of late years there has been much complaint by the players over rough

WOMAN IS LEADING FIGURE IN AMERICAN DOG DERBY

"LYD" HUTCHINSON AND HER LEAD DOG "DOC."

The most interesting figure in the American Dog Derby which starts at Ashton, Idaho, on February 22, is "Lyd" Hutchinson.

This nervous girl, driver whose plucky performance in the 1922 Derby won her national renown, will again compete in the American trail classic.

"Bud" Kent, holder of the American championship cup, will defend the title and trophy against some of the best crack trailmen and fastest sledge teams in the country.

The data on Boehler brings out some information which probably has passed the eagle eyes of the National League fans. He was born Jan. 2, 1894, at Lawrenceburg, Ind., which puts him mighty close to the 30-year mark.

Boehler made his professional debut in 1912 with Springfield in the Ohio State League. He was purchased by the Tigers and spent 1913, 1914, 1915 and part of 1916 with the Tigers. He was released to Louisville in the summer of 1916. In 1917 he was with Denver and with Joplin in 1918, 1919 and 1920.

The St. Louis Browns in bidding for pitching talent brought in Boehler in the spring of 1919, but after a month's trial he was sent to Tulsa.

Who was the best three-year-old of 1922?
Morvich, who carried off the two-year-old honors at the close of the 1921 campaign, was a favorite for that distinction, the best three-year-old of 1922.

Morvich, after winning the Kentucky Derby, failed miserably. Pit-lory, winner of the Preakness, also lacked consistency.

The star three-year-old performers, Bunting, Lucky Hour, Kau-Sang, Morvich, Whiskaway, Snob II, balls in play. The concrete grandstands are responsible for such a condition, as usually when a ball hits the rough surface it is rebounded until for play.

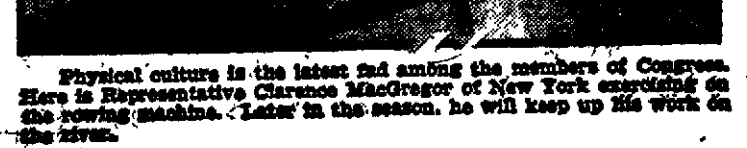

In the game at Detroit, with a runner on second and the score very close, Hodge decided the ball in his possession was unfit to be pitched. Instead of getting the umpire's o. k. Hodge simply threw the ball into the Detroit dugout.

The umpires were more surprised than anyone in the park over Hodge's act. There was nothing for them to do but score the runner from second, as the rules give the right to advance two bases on a ball thrown into the dugout.

The play was given much publicity, yet a few weeks later Ward of New York turned the same trick with a runner on first and the Yankees leading by only one run. A rough ball that didn't suit him was the cause.

The second incident caused President Johnson to issue a bulletin to the managers telling them it might be advisable to inform their players that the ball was always in play until the umpire ruled otherwise.

Keeping Fit for Congress
Physical culture is the latest and among the members of Congress. Here is Representative Clarence MacGregor of New York exercising on the rowing machine. Later in the season, he will keep up his work on the tennis.

LOCAL TEAM FINEST TO APPEAR IN V. C.

Principal Ward in Letter to Supt. Saxvik Commends Local Team Highly

In a letter to Supt. H. O. Saxvik, Principal M. W. Ward of the Valley City schools, commends Mr. Saxvik upon the fine spirit shown by the local basketball boys in their playing, and states that in his opinion they are the first team in the state. He says in his letter:

Valley City, N. D., Feb. 3, 1923
Supt. H. O. Saxvik, Bismarck, N. D.
Dear Mr. Saxvik:

I cannot refrain from writing you in commendation of your fine basketball team which played at Valley City last night.

We have always enjoyed Bismarck's visits to our high school, but this one I believe we enjoyed more than any previous one. Your team played a fine, clean game, and I believe I am correct in saying that it is the finest team that has appeared in Valley City this season with the single exception of the University Stars who played here during the holidays. Their defense was invincible and their offense at times dazzling. Their shooting was of a very high order. In fact in every department of the game they showed superior work which would compare most favorably with college basketball.

I am of the opinion that just now you have the best high school basketball team in the state. I hope it will continue to improve throughout the season, and if our own team cannot win the state championship by Bismarck and will exult with you if your team brings home the cup.

Both on and off the floor your boys were perfect gentlemen. It was a delight to us to welcome them, and their visit here will go down as one of the most pleasant occasions of the year.

Permit me also to congratulate you upon your coach. He is a continual inspiration to his team, and much of their success is due to his keen foresight and instruction.

Very truly yours,
M. E. WARD.

Harvard Coach Says Conlon Is Certain to Star

By NEA Service
Boston, Feb. 9.—The greatest big league prospect I have seen in years, a color player who has shown no more ability than did either George Sisler or Frankie Frisch in their college days.

That is the glowing tribute, paid "Joekie" Conlon, Harvard shortstop, by Jack Slaterry, baseball coach at that institution.

Conlon has just been signed by the Boston Braves and will get a chance to make good Slaterry's prediction.

Slaterry, a former big league player, aside from his duties as Harvard coach, is a big league scout. No doubt, his influence caused Conlon to sign with the Braves.

"I saw Frisch play when he was at Fordham, and Joekie Conlon when he started at Michigan, but I am going to go on record as saying neither of these two stars looked any better than Conlon in their college days."

"I miss my guess if he isn't a sensation in the National League inside of a couple of years," concluded the Harvard coach.

Changes System For Breaking in Recruit Umpires

By NEA Service
Chicago, Feb. 9.—A number of new faces will be seen this American League staff of umpires the coming season. President Johnson has already signed two new men in "Red" Ormsby and Clarence Rowland. It is said that the head of the American League has two other new umpires under advisement.

President Johnson intends to adopt a different system this year relative to his new men. Instead of letting them make their debut in a regular league game, he intends that they will get accustomed to big league methods during the spring training.

Working on those lines, President Johnson has assigned Ormsby to work the exhibition games in the south, with the Washington team, while Rowland will be with the Athletics.

It is believed that such training will greatly aid the new men to get away to a good start. It will sharpen them up on a big league method and incidentally give President Johnson a certain line on their real ability.

YOST OUTLINES QUALIFICATIONS OF GOOD COACH

Chicago, Feb. 10.—The successful college football coach has to have a thorough general education, understand boys intimately, be able to plan battles and develop strategy, must command the admiration and respect of everyone with whom he comes in contact, and must be physically able to stand long hours and a strenuous life.

That is the analysis of a coach, according to Fielding H. Yost, veteran team builder of the University of Michigan.

Unlike other teachers in the University his success is measured from year to year by the victories. His team wins over opponents who are ready off the field. The time which if the students of a professor in any college were required to pass the same test in competition with rivals from other seats of learning, and the professors were ranked accordingly, there would be a lot of them doomed to failure, Coach Yost observes.

"Too often," he said today, "coaches are judged only by their success in turning out winning teams. The coach who strives for an ideal and commands the respect and admiration of his men and makes those with whom he comes in contact better men, is successful as a coach whether his team's record shows it or not."

The success of a winning coach, the Michigan leader says, "varies with his originality and strategy in working out means of offense and defense and much upon the personnel which he is given to develop."

"His hours of labor are long as he must do considerable work and study off the field. The time which a coach spends on the gridiron with his men is only a small part of the time which he must devote to his job."

"New plays must be worked out, opinions of other coaches must be given consideration and finally the entire plan of development decided upon, with every detail of instruction cared for."

"In addition the coach must be accepted favorably by the public, alumni and students who are loud in their praise of winners and equally loud in their criticisms of losers."

"He must hold the respect of all and his ideals must be high."

McGraw Boasts Great Record as Manager

When it comes to piloting winning ball clubs the palm must go to John J. "Muggsy" McGraw of the New York Giants. For McGraw, like Tennyson's immortal brook, goes triumphantly on.

Since the fiery Irishman first took

100 Straight

charge of the managerial duties of the Giants back in 1903, the National League entry in New York has established a most remarkable record. In the 20 campaigns McGraw has been at the helm, his teams have won the pennant no less than eight occasions, and but for Markie's ivory play in 1908 would have copied the flag that year.

Added to this, the Giants, under McGraw, have finished second eight times, third once and four times. Only in one season did McGraw fail to land his club in the first division that being in 1915, when it came in last.

Thus, out of 20 campaigns, the Giants have finished "one-two" 16 seasons, besides winning three out of seven world championships, there being no titular entries in 1904, McGraw's first pennant-winning year.

But though McGraw has no doubt won more success as a manager of major league ball clubs than any other pilot in the game, still the wily leader cherishes one fop ambition which he hopes to put across before he quits the pastime for good. And that is to cop four pennants in a row—something which no one has yet been able to accomplish.

Back in 1913, McGraw seemed well on the way to realize his "dream," the Giants having taken the honors three times running, but the following season his hopes were blasted when the Boston Braves put on their unprecedented victories march, going from eighth place in July to the flag, thus edging out the McGraw clan which had been just about been counted "in."

However, another rosy chance now confronts the crafty manager, for he has two triumphs in succession to his credit, and with victories in 1913 and 1924 can turn the trick he desires.

VALLEY CITY HERE TONIGHT

The team suffered through luck on the smadd Mandan floor last night, losing to Mandan high by a score of 36 to 15.

MINERS OPPOSE UNDER GROUND COAL STORAGE

Springfield, Feb. 10.—Storage of reserve supplies of coal underground, as suggested recently by H. Foster Bain, director of the United States Bureau of Mines, would be impossible in the soft coal fields of Illinois, according to Robert Meadell, state director of mines and minerals.

Liability of combustion resulting in a disastrous fire would make this proposed means of insuring stability in the coal industry impractical, Mr. Meadell said.

"To attempt this in Illinois mines, however, would simply mean to start so many mine fires," said Mr. Meadell. "Combustion fires from mine refuse are now one of the problems of mining in this state. This danger would be only increased by attempting any large storage underground, and then of course it is subject to shrinkage."

Seasonable demands for coal could be stabilized by the storage plan, Director Bain of the Bureau of Mines suggested in a report to the United States coal commission. His plan was to keep the miners at work, but to hoist coal only as requirements demanded.

TRADE SCHOOL IS PROPOSED

New Plan Is Urged for Wahpeton School of Science

A trades and industrial school where the young people of the state may learn a trade or handicraft is planned to supersede the present state school of science at Wahpeton. It is the aim to model the institution after Dunwoody Institute in Minneapolis or Tuskegee Institute in Alabama both of which have won national reputation by their success in teaching useful trades.

E. P. Riley, acting president, and C. E. Lounsbury of Wahpeton, yesterday told the house appropriations of plans for the future of the institution.

These plans have been put into definite form by Dean Babcock of the university who last summer made an investigation of successful industrial schools of the country, including Dunwoody and Tuskegee, and then worked out a plan of operation for the Wahpeton school. The plans have the sanction of the board of administration.

His plan provides for a junior college, offering two years academic work, in addition to the industrial school. This is to have no particular connection with the industrial school except that it will be part of the same institution. The whole school or college will be a continuation with many changes, of the present institution. A course in printing has already been instituted.

More than 24 per cent of the population of North Dakota is engaged in trades and industries, Mr. Lounsbury told the committee. Only a little more than 6 per cent is engaged in the professions. Yet, he said, there is no school in the state where the former class may obtain training while there are six institutions where the professional people are taught.

AT THE MOVIES

THE ELTINGE
How would you like to be known as one of the most beautiful girls in Hollywood, Calif., where the world's most beautiful women live? For to be one of the most beautiful women in Hollywood means to be one of the most beautiful in the world.

For "Singed Wings," in his new production for Paramount featuring Bebe Daniels and Conrad Nagel, Penrhyn Stanlaws, the director, demanded "twelve of the most beautiful girls in Hollywood."

Great care was exercised by his assistants before the twelve beauties were finally chosen. In addition, they had to go under the critical eye of Mr. Stanlaws, himself a famous artist and excellent judge of beauty.

Unusual beauty, not only on the part of the girls, but also in their costuming, was necessitated by the big ballroom set in which they took part for a scene in "Winged Wings."

This big set was so massive and so impressive that it was necessary that those in it be equally impressive and beautiful. In addition, Miss Daniels, in the moth costume created for her presentation of "The Moth Dance," added more beauty to the scene, which is easily one of the most picturesque ever photographed for the screen.

"Singed Wings" comes to the Eltinge theatre Monday and Tuesday. The story is thrilling.

CAPITOL
Considerable interest is attached to the showing at the Capitol theatre on Monday, of "The Kentucky Derby," a big Universal-Jewel picture with an all-star cast. Most of it was filmed in the Kentucky Blue Grass region.

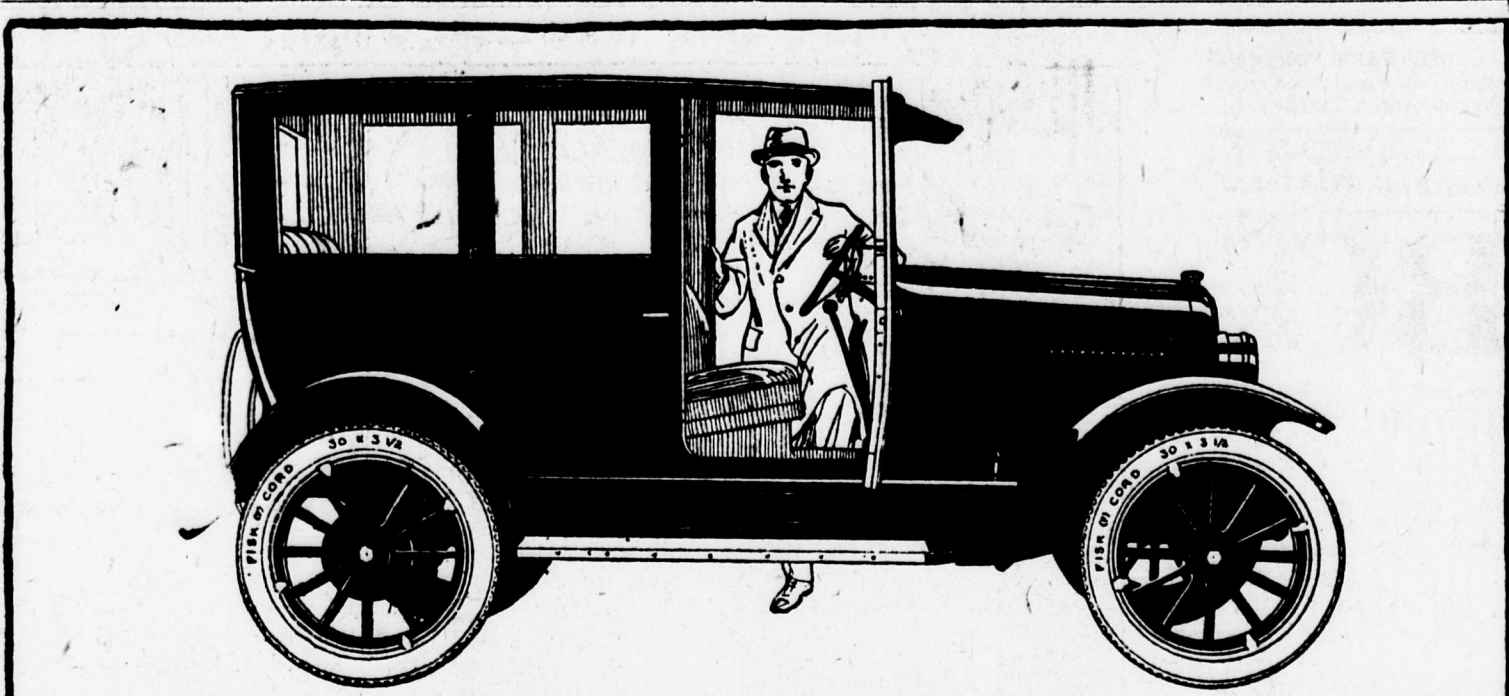

Reginald Denny, "The Leather Pusher," a featured player for Universal in many specials, portrays the chief masculine role, carrying out his romantic interest is Lillian Rich, the opposite feminine role. Miss Rich is known, perhaps, as well for her work in "Man to Man" as for anything she has ever done, though her engagements with Universal have been many and varied.

Lionel Belmore, Emmett King, Gertrude Ostor, Kingsley Benedict, Walter McGrath, Harry Carter, Pat Harmon, Bert Woodruff, Bert Tracy, Wilfred Lucas, Anna Hernandez and Verne Winter have other principal roles.

The story of "The Kentucky Derby," adapted from an old stage thriller of Charles T. Dazey's, "The Suburban," pictures the mint julep aristocracy of Kentucky, its race-mad spirit at the derby time, the slums of New York, the docks, the "shanghaiing" process and the adventures of castaways on a desert island off the coast of China.

HALLOWEEN SHOOTING
CASE IS UP AT FORKS
Grand Forks, N. D., Feb. 10.—The case of the state against Henry Nelson of Northwood, was begun in district court here. Nelson is charged with assault with intent to do bodily harm. The case grew out of an incident on last Halloween night, when Nelson is alleged to have fired a shot which entered the knee of Martin Larson and which Larson alleges, eventually necessitated amputation of the right leg at about the knee.

STOPS COUGHS AND COLDS
Neglected coughs and colds lead to influenza, la grippe, asthma and bronchitis, and the old method of "letting it run its course" is rapidly giving way to preventive treatment. Three generations of users have testified to the quick relief given by Foley's Honey and Tar from coughs, colds, croup, throat, chest and bronchial trouble. ## Where the Greater Value Is

YOU step into the driver's seat of your Overland without contortion. There is ample room between wheel and door-jamb.

You drive without arm-strain and with no desire to hog the crown of the road. The steering mechanism is compensated and is safe.

You ride in greater comfort because of the easy cradling of the Triplex Springs (Patented). It costs you less because of oversize tires, sturdy construction and a gasoline mileage of 25 and better.

You take greater pride in the longer lines, higher hood, lower seats, finer upholstery, and greater all-round beauty.

IT STARTS PROMPTLY IN THE COLDEST WEATHER

The behavior of Dodge Brothers Motor Car on zero days is a fair example of its fitness the year round.

You turn the switch, step on the button, and the motor starts—without undue noise or delay.

The coordination of the power plant is well high flawless. The slightest impulse sets it in motion.

The battery—6-cells, 12-volts—is unusually large.

The electrical system is remarkably efficient and cuts to a minimum the usual voltage loss between battery and starter.

Finally, the starter, itself—an admirable example of its kind—is directly united with the engine by a chain drive which is always in mesh—a fact having much to do with the promptness and quietness of its action.

The price of the Type-A Sedan is $1630.00 delivered in Bismarck.
